Prime accused in Biklu Shiva murder case held in Delhi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Criminal Investigation Department (CID) arrested Jagadish alias Jagga, the prime accused in the murder of rowdy-sheeter-turned-realtor Shivaprakash alias Biklu Shiva, at the Indira Gandhi International Airport in New Delhi on Tuesday.

After the murder on July 15, Jagadish, a resident of Hennur, absconded and fled to Dubai. The police had issued a Blue Corner notice against him. CID sleuths arrested him after he arrived in India more than a month after the crime.

The police had been tracking his movements and received the inputs about his return. As soon as he landed at the airport, he was arrested, a police officer said.

After obtaining a transit warrant, he was brought to Bengaluru for investigation. It is learnt that he had travelled to three to four countries to evade arrest.

On July 15, rowdy-sheeter Shivaprakash was brutally hacked to death with lethal weapons by 12 people near his house in Halasuru. Based on a complaint filed by his mother, Bharathinagar police registered a case, in which BJP MLA Byrathi Basavaraj was named as accused No. 5. Basavaraj was questioned twice in connection with the case.

The police had arrested 16 people in connection with the murder. The case was later transferred to the CID.

K'taka's IGP Sandeep Patil shows his mettle in Ironman Triathlon

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

HE is a mid-career cop with a resolve to carve a niche in the world of endurance and fitness. Indian Police Service (IPS) officer of 2004 batch, Inspector General of Police (KSRP), Sandeep Patil, competed in the Ironman Triathlon in August this year.

He is the only IPS officer from the Karnataka cadre to have competed in the prestigious global challenge held by the World Triathlon Corporation (WTC) in Copenhagen. "I finished swimming 3.8 km in the sea, cycled 180 km and ran for 42 km in 14 hours 45 min," Patil told TNIE.

"I began training for the triathlon one-and-a-half years ago but went on a stricter regime and diet discipline six months back, after registering for the triathlon in January this year," he said.

A cop is required to be fit. Qualifying and competing in Ironman requires a higher level el of discipline and training besides the resolve to make it. "To compete in all the three disciplines was a challenge, especially swimming. My earlier experience of swimming was for 300 metre at best. From there to learn to swim 3.8 km and that too in an open sea was a huge challenge. I pushed myself to swim more, better and in record time," he said.

Cycling for 180 km immediately after the swim in the sea and then running for 42 km soon after was a bigger challenge for Patil. "I had to maintain my energy levels and went on a high protein diet three months prior to the event," he said. Being a vegetarian, Patil got his protein intake from a diet of lentils, sprouts and protein shakes. "On the race day, I had to consume a minimum of 60 gm carbohydrates per hour; and ate two to three energy gels and bars every 60 minutes. It's not easy to suddenly switch to a high protein and carb diet. One has to train one's body to get used to these energy bars and gels for almost 13-14 hours," he added.

To maintain a fine balance between professional life and personal pursuit of the Ironman challenge, the police officer said that he would start his day early, around 5 am to complete intense and long training sessions with a personal trainer and be in office by 10 am.

Patil thanked the state government, DG&IGP and the police department for their help and support.

"My wife, Poonam, who cheered me all through, was present at the finishing line," said the IGP.

MEDICO BRINGS SKELETON HOME; DAD DUMPS IT, CREATES PANIC

Bengaluru: Tension gripped Govinda Shetty Palya Road in Parappana Agrahara police station limits after a human skeleton was found in a roadside garbage dump on Tuesday morning.

According to the police, a 51-year-old resident had discarded the skeleton near a rajakaluve after a foul smell began emanating from his house, where the skeleton was kept. His daughter, a second-year MBBS student at a private medical college in the city, had brought the skeleton for her studies.

While the police were conducting an inquiry at the spot, the man himself arrived and admitted that he had dumped the skeleton. After verifying all details and cross-checking his claims, the police recorded his statement and issued a warning. ENS

Security guard's fall at Metro station sparks safety concerns

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE accidental fall of a 52-year-old security guard onto the tracks at Ragigudda Metro Station on the Yellow Line on Monday has raised concerns about both the working conditions of guards deployed at Namma Metro stations and the absence of safety barriers such as platform screen doors (PSDs) or steel barricades.

According to officials of the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRL), the guard, who was on duty at platform number 2, reportedly felt dizzy before slipping and falling on the electrified tracks.

BMRL Chief Public Relations Officer Yashwanth Chavan said, "The security guard had some giddiness and fell on the track. A colleague stationed on platform number 1 immediately activated the Emergency Trip Switch (ETS), cutting off power to the tracks. A passenger on the platform also rushed to help pull the guard to safety." On duty overtime by the guard, he said, "Everyone works only their shifts."

The incident triggered public demand for the urgent installation of PSDs or, at least, steel barricades at Metro stations to prevent such accidents.

Chavan explained that while BMRL is considering PSDs, there are technological hurdles. "There are technical restrictions, such as integration of sensors with the train. Operational Metro stations also have challenges, including integration with signaling, fixing of civil structures, and limited hours available for such work," he said.

Chavan said provisions to install PSDs have been included in the upcoming projects. "They can be considered for the upcoming lines. In fact, it is already planned for the underground section of the Pink Line." The guard was safely rescued and BMRL officials confirmed that timely action by staff and a passenger helped avert any serious consequences.

GOVT ISSUES ORDER TO IMPLEMENT INTERNAL RESERVATION FOR SCs

To initiate recruitment in various depts; Nomadic tribes likely to move court seeking a stay

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE State Government on Monday issued an order for the implementation of the internal reservation for the Scheduled Castes by sharing the 17 per cent quota to three groups among 101 castes.

Karnataka will become the second state after Telangana to implement the internal quota following the Supreme Court's decision on Aug.1, 2024 that the states are empowered to do so based on empirical data.

The government has directed the Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR) to take action to initiate the direct recruitment process for filling up vacancies in various government departments and promotions which were stalled awaiting the decision on internal quota. The upper age limit should be relaxed with a separate notification, it added.

The cabinet had accepted the Justice HN Nagamohan Das commission's report on Aug.19 by modifying the recommendation of creating five categories-A, B, C, D and E into only

Give more time to file objections: BJP to BC panel

BJP has demanded the State Backward Classes Commission give more time for submitting objections to its notification on castes and sub-castes. BJP State General Secretary and former minister V Sunil Kumar said the Commission issued a notification on August 22 and has given seven days for filing objections. He said that it has to be extended by another 10 days. The BJP leader said in the list of 1,400 castes, many Muslim sub-castes were not mentioned. He also said there is much confusion in the list of castes, criteria and issues. Next week, a delegation of BJP leaders will meet the Commission Chairman to explain their apprehensions and also give suggestions, he said.

three-A, B and C. The A with 16 SC (Left) castes and B with 19 SC (right) castes were allotted 6 per cent each whereas the C including the Bhovi, Lambani, Koracha and Korama, 59 nomadic

SC castes give 5 per cent. Adi Andhra, Adi Karnataka and Adi Dravida communities who had not mentioned their original castes can avail reservation either under Group A

At the instance of the new data or the information on the castes arrives the amendment to the SC/ST Commission Act 2002 will be amended. The permanent Scheduled Castes commission will be set up to report their status to the government by studying the mobility of the castes and verifying the data from time to time.

A cabinet sub-committee will be appointed to recommend the withdrawal of the cases against the activists who were in the struggle for the internal quota, the order clarified.

Meanwhile, not happy with the revision of the Nagamohan Das Commission's recommendation, that is to put the 59 nomadic SC castes into category C along with Bhovi, Lambani, Koracha and Korama castes, there is likelihood of their leadership moving the court seeking stay for the implementation of the internal quota. They were alleging that it is against the Supreme Court's directives as the inter se backwardness was not taken for account, according to sources.

Garment sector seeks 5% uniform GST on hosiery, apparel products

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CALLING for major reforms in the Goods and Services Tax (GST) structure, the Karnataka garment and hosiery sector has urged the GST Council to fix a uniform 5% rate on apparel and hosiery products and to bring petroleum products under the tax framework. Industry representatives say the current system of multiple slabs on garments and the exclusion of petrol and diesel from GST are creating confusion, raising costs, and adding to inflationary pressures on consumers.

In a memorandum submitted to Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, the group said that a single GST rate of 5% across garments and hosiery would reduce price volatility, improve compliance, and eliminate disputes over classification.

The representation, led by Sajjan Raj Mehta, trade activist and former president of the Karnataka Hosiery and Garment Association, further pressed for the inclusion of petroleum products under sociation acknowledged the apprehensions of states over possible revenue loss. However, it pointed out that a rationalised tax structure with a broader base would eventually strengthen collections. To address the interim shortfall, the group suggested a phased transition with compensation support for states until revenues stabilise.

Underscoring the consumer impact, the memorandum highlighted that garments are an essential commodity for every section of society. Rationalisation of GST, it said, would help contain price rise, boost domestic demand, support local manufacturing, and make Indian textiles more competitive globally.

"The Council must adopt a forward-looking approach that ensures ease of doing business, price stability and industry growth, while safeguarding state revenues," Mehta, in the letter, said.

SIT conducts mahazar at Thimarodi's house, Sujatha appears for questioning

SIT trying to complete probe early, says Dr G

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

KARNATAKA Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said on Tuesday that crores of devotees have expressed concerns about the recent developments in Dharmasthala and are waiting for the truth to come out. The SIT has a big responsibility, and it is trying to complete the probe early, the minister said. He said even the government is of the view that it is better if the investigation is completed early. Dr Parameshwara said the SIT and the government have taken serious note of the complainant's statements and its fallout.

The Home Minister rejected the BJP's allegations that the government is a conspirator. The SIT has been constituted to bring the truth, he said.

He also rejected the demand for the NIA probe by saying they need to wait for the report on the ongoing probe by the SIT. "Let the SIT report come, after that there will be discussions for and against the report, and after that the government too will take a decision," he said.

The Special Investigation Team (SIT), led by investigating officer Jitendra Kumar Dayama, conducted a mahazar at activist Mahesh Shetty Thimarodi's house where the complainant in the alleged mass burial case was given shelter. The mobile phone and other belongings of the complainant were reportedly seized, sources said.

The mahazar continued till late night as per the information provided by the complainant. Security was beefed up near Thimarodi's house and the media personnel were denied entry. Thimarodi was not present at his house when SIT arrived and statements of his family members were taken.

The SIT sleuths also conducted searches at Thimarodi's brother Mohan's house.

Meanwhile, Sujatha Bhat appeared before the SIT to record her statement in connection with the disappearance of one Ananya Bhat, whom she claims to be her daughter. She arrived with her lawyers at the SIT office in Belthangady early on Tuesday morning. She was questioned till 8.30 pm. She has been summoned to appear for questioning on Wednesday also.

DKS was under pressure to apologise, say BJP, JDS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE BJP and Janata Dal (Secular) leaders took a swipe at Deputy Chief Minister and State Congress president DK Shivakumar for apologising for singing the RSS anthem in the state assembly.

They said Shivakumar apologised under pressure to continue in power, and fearing action from his party.

Leader of Opposition in the State Assembly R Ashoka said Shivakumar should have apologised when "Pakistan Zindabad" slogans were raised in the Vidhana Soudha premises, rather than apologising for singing a prayer that teaches patriotism.

"Who directed Shivakumar to apologise. Is it Sonia Gandhi or Rahul Gandhi or KC Venugopal or BK Hariprasad?" the BJP leader questioned.

The Congress leader Hariprasad had asked Shivakumar to apologise for singing the RSS anthem.

Ashoka said if Shivakumar had even an ounce of courage or self-respect, he would never have apologised. "If there was pressure on him to apologise, he should have resigned from the Congress without any hesitation," the BJP leader said. "It is unfortunate that such "so-called" leaders want to become the CM," the BJP leader said, hitting out at Shivakumar.

BJP State general secretary Sunil Kumar told media persons that Shivakumar apologised for singing the RSS prayer under some pressure, and it is tragic that he has forgotten patriotism to be seen as loyal to the Gandhi family.

Taking to the social media platform, the JDS termed Shivakumar a coward, who apologised to save his chair and avoid expulsion.

After facing flak from his party leaders, Shivakumar on Tuesday apologised. He, however, claimed that there was no pressure on him to do so.

For being loyal to the party and Gandhi family, I even went to Tihar Jail. I had brought 100 MLAs from Maharashtra to save the Vilas Rao Deshmukh government and then during the RS polls in Gujarat, I did it again to ensure the victory of late Ahmed Patel — Deputy CM DK Shivakumar

Gandhi family my god, I'm their devotee: DKS

DK Shivakumar said he was born a Congressman and will die a Congressman. "Gandhi family is my god and I am their devotee," he added. He pointed out that he has worked under AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge for over three decades and also under former chief minister late S Bangarappa.

"For being loyal to the party and Gandhi family, I even went to Tihar Jail. I had brought 100 MLAs from Maharashtra to save the Vilas Rao Deshmukh government and then during the RS polls in Gujarat, I did it again to ensure the victory of late Ahmed Patel. ED filed a case against me, but the Supreme Court dismissed it. IT, CBI and ED raids happened against 77 of my friends and family members. 400 cases were filed," he said.

He recalled that when he went to jail, his political rivals were happy, assuming that his political career was over, but Sonia Gandhi, Rahul Gandhi and Kharge made him KPCC president.

Shivakumar, having just returned from Bihar after taking part in the Voter Adhikar Yatra of Rahul Gandhi, wished to put an end to the controversy.

He recited the anthem on August 21 while replying to BJP on the stampede during the RCB's victory celebration. It triggered speculation whether it was a deliberate act to send out a message to the party high command as he longs to become chief minister after the incumbent Siddaramaiah completes two-and-a-half years in office in November 2025.

Senior Congress leader and MLC BK Hariprasad had insisted that Shivakumar apologise, while his arch rival in the party and former minister KN Rajanna launched a scathing attack against him.

"I started as a student leader in NSUI. I grew up as a political leader and student of political science. I know the history of Congress, RSS, BJP, JDS and communist parties, and their agenda, including the Gandhi family and its contribution," he elaborated.

"I know how RSS took root and spread in our state before and after BJP came to power. There is a big RSS building opposite the Reserve Bank of India (in Bengaluru) office. They get crores of rupees a year as rent. How many schools have they started in Bengaluru? As a political leader, I know how a grand building is being built in Channarayana, he said.

Satish seeks Rahul's attention on key issues in state Congress

BELAGAVI: Public Works Minister Satish Jarkiholi on Tuesday stressed the need to keep Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi informed about sensitive developments in Karnataka, following recent controversies involving Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar singing the RSS anthem in the Assembly. Addressing the media in Jamkhandi, Bagalkot district, Satish said that not all events in the state automatically come to Rahul's notice. "It is the responsibility of party leaders to apprise him. The high command, too, must pay close attention to such matters," Satish said. The minister was responding to questions on Shivakumar reciting the RSS anthem in the recent Assembly session, as well as the remarks made by former minister KN Rajanna regarding Shivakumar's conduct. Both incidents have triggered unease among senior Congress leaders. On Rajanna being denied a ministerial berth, Satish said the former minister's comments had been misrepresented before the party leadership. "Rajanna should personally approach the high command and explain the injustice he feels has been done. His statements have been twisted. He would never issue such remarks. This must be corrected," he said. ENS

Trees in IISc campus to be geo-tagged

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

TREES in the state are set to get unique identity numbers soon. The state forest department is undertaking a pilot study to geo-tag trees in the Indian Institute of Science (IISc), Bengaluru.

Based on the outcome of the exercise, trees in select areas of two districts in central and north Karnataka will be geo-tagged and issued unique identity numbers, before extending the scheme to other parts of the state.

A senior forest department official told TNIE, "The proposal is before the government for clearance. The aim of tagging the trees is to know their age, species, understand their growth, canopy cover, girth, soil condition, health of the trees and if it needs any attention. It is also important to know species details such as native, non-native, protected and heritage."

Explaining the reason for choosing IISc campus for the pilot study, the official said, as per the Karnataka High Court orders, trees cannot be nailed. So geo tag and chip will have to be tied to the tree. To ensure the tags and the chips are not stolen during the pilot study, a well protected premise has been chosen.

RK Singh, Principal Chief Conservator of Forests (retired) and IISc scientist, said, "IISc houses a varied variety of species. Many trees are over a century old. This study will not just help know the type of trees, but also their uniqueness and biodiversity. Understanding the trees in IISc will help also in learning how the health and growth of the trees in Bengaluru was in the past and how it has changed over the years".

Other experts from the Indian Institute of Science said that the same can be replicated in other old universities and campuses in Karnataka like the GKVK, Dharwad University, Bangalore University and Mysore University which house old tree canopies and are well protected.

In 2018-19, the forest department had conducted a similar study in a private farm land on 210 Silver Oak trees in Tarikere. But after six years it stopped as the farmer axed the trees in his coffee estate.

"Technology is evolving rapidly. Earlier Near Field Communication (NFC) tagging was done. Now state-of-the-art AI enabled micro-chips are available. The standard operating procedures for the exercise is being prepared. The data generated will be monitored by the forest department and IISc. An app to monitor the trees is also being created. In future, the tagging will be done for special tree species like sandalwood and teak, which have high value and need protection," the official added.

INS UDAYGIRI

AT A GLANCE

The two frigates incorporate improved stealth, advanced weapons, sensors, and modern propulsion systems. Both vessels are capable of performing a full range of maritime operations in blue-water conditions. INS Udaygiri was constructed by Mazagon Dock Shipbuilders Ltd, Mumbai, while INS Himgiri was built by Garden Reach Shipbuilders & Engineers, Kolkata. They were designed by the Navy's Warship Design Bureau. Each ship is equipped with a Combined Diesel or Gas propulsion system, an Integrated Platform System, and a suite of advanced indigenous weapons and sensors. Both ships revive the names of earlier frigates-INS Udaygiri (F35) and INS Himgiri (F34) - that served the Indian Navy for over 30 years before being decommissioned.

USHA PERI @ Visakhapatnam

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh commissioned the two of most advanced stealth frigates INS Udaygiri and INS Himgiri at the Eastern Naval Command Headquarters in Visakhapatnam on Tuesday.

Addressing the gathering, Singh reaffirmed the Centre's commitment to self-reliance in defence manufacturing. "INS Tamel was the last foreign order for the Indian Navy. No future ship for the Indian Navy will be built abroad. All will be constructed in India," he asserted. He said India's policy of restraint while asserting readiness to defend national security. "When our security is threatened, we know how to give a befitting reply. Innocent civilians were killed in Pahalgam. We gave an effective, measured and precise response through Operation Sindoor," he said. Udaygiri is noted for being the fastest ship in her class to be delivered post-launch, a result of modular construction techniques adopted by Indian shipyards. The addition of these frigates is expected to strengthen maritime security on India's eastern seaboard. Vice Admiral Rajesh Pendharkar, Flag Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Eastern Naval Command, presided over the commissioning.

"When our security is threatened, we know how to give a befitting reply. Innocent civilians were killed in Pahalgam. We gave an effective, measured and precise response through Operation Sindoor," Singh said.

Mann: Punjab to consider roll out of breakfast scheme like TNSUBASHINI VIJAYAKUMAR
@ Chennai

PUNJAB Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann said his state would consider implementing a scheme similar to the Tamil Nadu government's CM's Breakfast Scheme. He was speaking at the launch of the scheme's expansion to government-aided schools in urban areas by TN CM M K Stalin in Chennai, on Tuesday. "This is a remarkable achievement as the government is taking care of both the education and health of children," Mann said, lauding Stalin for the initiative.

Noting that Punjab is known as the "food bowl of India" due to the huge quantities of wheat and rice it produced, Mann added that the introduction of a similar breakfast scheme would be discussed at the cabinet net meeting scheduled on Wednesday.

With this expansion to 2,430 schools in urban areas, the scheme, first launched in September 2022, now covers 20.59 lakh children of classes 1 to 5 at 37,416 government and government-aided schools in the state at a cost of ₹600 crore per year.

Calling for a nutritional boost to the CM's Breakfast Scheme during launch of its expansion on Tuesday, Dr Soumya Swaminathan, chair of the MS Swaminathan Research Foundation, suggested the inclusion of five grams of moringa leaf powder in the meals served to schoolchildren to address anaemia, particularly among girls.

Does Kerala have a ground fit for Messi?

MANISHA V C S @ Kochi

LIONEL Messi is set to land in Kerala this November with Argentina's World Cup-winning squad. But as the fans wait with bated breath for the arrival of football's biggest icon, a frantic race has begun: can Kerala get a stadium ready in time?

All eyes are on Thiruvananthapuram's Greenfield Stadium, which is "almost finalised" as the venue, according to Anto Augustine, managing director of Reporter Broadcasting Company, the official sponsors of the Messi project.

"Right now, we have almost finalised the Greenfield Stadium in Karyavattom as the venue. Kochi is not in consideration. The government will take the final say soon," Anto said, adding that ticket rates and Argentina's opponents will be announced within a week.

But the venue, primarily a cricket ground, presents a challenge. With hard cricket pitches in its centre, football experts have pointed out that laying a world-class football turf in under three months will test Kerala's limits. Former India captain Jo Paul Anchery warns, "It is very difficult to play football on grounds that have cricket pitches. I have experienced this in the 90s at Kallor (Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium in Kochi). Such scenarios have to be dealt with wisely."

DEFINE COMMERCIAL SPEECH THAT SEEKS TO MONETISE RIDICULE

THE Supreme Court has cautioned social media influencers that ‘commercialised’ speech cannot come at the cost of hurting sentiments. During a hearing on comedians’ offensive jokes about people with disabilities, the court asked the government to swiftly draft guidelines that balance the right to free speech with every group’s right to live with dignity. Justice Joymalya Bagchi’s point that humour must never cross into mockery and Justice Surya Kant’s emphasis on balancing rights and duties spotlight a crucial truth too often drowned out online. Today’s influencers build careers around clicks, likes, and brand partnerships, sometimes stooping to jokes about disability, stereotypes about minorities, or even making fun of the elderly. When ridicule rakes in money, it demeans communities, spreads prejudice, and widens social divides. The court’s concern echoes its earlier view in the Pravasi Bhalai Sangathan case (2014) where it had warned unchecked hate speech can corrode cohesion. In diverse India, this carries a greater risk.

The situation is complicated by this new form: commercial speech online. Traditional media and entertainment platforms also generate revenue from what they publish or broadcast. However, they generally adhere to clear ethical rules and regulations. Influencers fall in a gray area. They are part citizen, part business. Their posts can be both personal opinions and product promotions. The court has called for guidelines for commercial speech, asking, “Anybody can start making fun... where is all this going to end?” It is important to remember that this is not a criticism of satire or honest critique. Satire has a valuable role in democracy by challenging those in power and revealing hypocrisy. However, making fun of someone’s disability or age is not satire—it is simply cruelty disguised as content. Making money from this kind of cruelty cannot be justified as a form of free speech.

The court’s reminder is timely. First, parliament must define commercial speech in the digital domain and distinguish between private expression, satire, and monetised content. Influencer speech that crosses into advertising or brand promotion should be held to the same standards as those of consumer protection law. Two, the responsibility must also shift to audiences: to disengage from toxic creators, to demand better content, to use their collective agency. Ultimately, conscience should guide us. Words must remain free, but never be inhuman.

INDIA IN RIGHT STANCE TO FACE EXTRA TARIFF

THOSE who had hoped for a last-minute pause of the additional 25 percent tariffs on Indian exports to the US would be disappointed. With no settlement signed or even negotiated, the US department of homeland security on Tuesday notified “the punitive tariffs on Indian goods entered for consumption, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption” from 9.31 am IST on Wednesday would attract the heightened levies. The signals have been pointing in this direction. First, the US trade team, expected in India on August 25, deferred its visit. American rhetoric has been aggressive too; Vice President J D Vance on Sunday stated “aggressive economic leverage” including “secondary tariffs on India” had been applied to force Russia to stop bombing Ukraine.

It is to the credit of India that it has stood up to the arm-twisting. Speaking in Ahmedabad on Sunday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi stated, “No matter how much pressure comes, we will keep increasing our strength to withstand it... The government will never let harm come the way of small entrepreneurs, farmers, livestock rearers.” The government has also rightly decided to diversify its trading options. Russian crude purchases, which were suspended in July, have been resumed, with several Indian refiners placing orders for loading in September and October. While the PM called for ‘self-reliance’, RBI Governor Sanjay Malhotra pledged the central bank “would not be found wanting” in providing additional liquidity to guard against the tariff impact.

India, which has been reaching out to Russia and China, has made it clear it intends to more than double its trade with Russia, targeting $100 billion by 2030. Meanwhile, it must keep its US options open too, as the latter needs India as a counterweight to China. India has surpassed China as the top smartphone exporter with a 44 percent share of the US market, largely driven by Apple’s strategy to diversify production. Indian exports to the US are at about $85 billion and cannot be replaced overnight without hurting American consumers. Peace or a pause in Ukraine could soon end the rationale behind the punitive tariffs. Thus, the expectation among some pundits that the trade talks could resume after a short hiatus is not misplaced. The government should use this period, meanwhile, to develop domestic demand and stronger, alternative regional trade routes.

QUICK TAKE

LETTING WATER FLOW

IT’S heartening to note Chennai has become the latest Indian city to adopt a biodiversity index. More than 20 Indian cities, starting with Hyderabad in 2012, have adopted such indices; plans are afoot to have them for five more cities in Tamil Nadu. One of the main benefits that should follow regular assessment of a city’s biodiversity assets is integration of ecological health into urban planning. With Tamil Nadu’s wettest months coming up, one of the 23 factors in Chennai’s index—water-permeable area, at only 63 percent—should worry policy makers and citizens alike. Nature-based solutions like building permeable pavements and green roofs should be incentivised as soon as possible.

HERE is a quiet but serious epidemic in the country—hysterectomy. It is a surgical procedure involving the removal of a woman’s uterus, sometimes accompanied by the removal of the ovaries, fallopian tubes and cervix. According to the National Family Health Survey 2019-21 (NFHS 5), the prevalence of hysterectomy among women aged 40-49 years was as high as nearly 10 percent. The numbers are far higher in states such as Andhra Pradesh (22.5 percent), Telangana (21.2 percent), Bihar (17.2 percent) and Gujarat (11.7 percent). More worryingly, the median age of women who had undergone hysterectomy is 34 years for rural and 36 years for urban areas, more than 10 years before natural menopause.

The common reasons for getting a hysterectomy include excessive menstrual bleeding/ pain, fibroids/ cysts, and uterine disorders. While it may be sometimes unavoidable, the surgery poses serious risk to women’s health by inducing early menopause. Research has established its links with increased risk of illnesses like cardiovascular disease, metabolic disorders, ovarian failure, vasomotor symptoms, thyroid cancer, urinary tract cancer, pelvic prolapse, bone density loss, and mental health issues. Therefore, it is not a procedure that should be taken lightly.

Despite such obvious health consequences, why is hysterectomy among young women in India on the rise? Data consistently indicates a higher prevalence among less educated rural women, despite the limited access to surgical procedures in rural areas. Moreover, women agricultural workers have been hit hard by this trend as they are led to believe that it avoids loss of wages and improves endurance for demanding work hours without menstrual discomfort. This is widely documented among sugarcane workers in Maharashtra’s Beed district, where the prevalence was at a staggering 56 percent in 2024, with an average age of 35 years among women who migrated for work. Similar trends were observed among women agricultural workers in Telangana and Bihar, where the prevalence was 18 percent and 10 percent, respectively, according to NFHS 4.

This grim choice, thought to be a short-term solution to avoid financial penalties, ironically reduces the woman’s active working lifespan and quality of life because of its impact on bone mineral density and cardiovascular health, among other ailments.

From global experience, we know that the structure of the medical system, the quality of medical advice and

Too many young Indian women are going through unnecessary hysterectomies. It’s affecting their health and working lives. Better awareness and tighter monitoring are needed to counter the trend the extent of insurance coverage influence unnecessary surgeries. For instance, the prevalence of hysterectomy has always been much higher in the US ($25 per 100,000 females in 2008) compared to average European OECD nations (212 in 2010), despite similar socioeconomic and health indicators.

Europe’s largely public healthcare system leaves less incentive for private medical practitioners for invasive procedures. In contrast, the dominant private healthcare in the US, covered by insurance, exhibits the issue of moral hazard where health insurance coverage drives overprescription of surgeries or diagnostics.

Note that as per NFHS 5, 70 percent of the hysterectomies in India were done at private clinics. Bharath Bhushan Mami and Venkat Rao Pulla’s research, published in 2013, found in Andhra Pradesh that healthcare providers advised poor rural women as young as 20 years to have a hysterectomy even for routine gynaecological issues, such as abdominal pain and white discharge, without offering any alternatives due to the profit motive. Such nudges are common due to the lack of awareness about the importance of the womb for their overall health and longevity.

In addition, insurance coverage clearly plays a role. Gaurav Gunnal and Sudeshna Roy (2024), and Angad Singh and Dipti Govil (2021) used data from NFHS 4 to show that women covered under insurance were more likely to undergo a hysterectomy. There are widespread media reports of unnecessary surgeries being done, particularly covered under Centre and state-funded insurance schemes.

YIN AND YANG OF AI IMPERIALISM

HERE is a real race going on over artificial intelligence with various nations vying for primacy. At the recent World AI Conference in Shanghai, Chinese Premier Li Qiang called for a global governance framework built upon consensus. Meanwhile, the US government’s approach is on its website: “The US is in a race to achieve global dominance in AI. Whoever has the largest AI ecosystem will set the global standards and reap broad economic and security benefits.”

Both nations seek to dominate, but while China seeks to be at the head of a consensus, the US seeks leadership based on individualism. This is the yin and yang of AI imperialism.

At the individual level, some of us seek comfort in saying that we have seen many technological advances in the past, and that AI too is another such. But the transformative potential of AI should not be underestimated. The power of the present-day human to undertake intellectual activity with the aid of technology is superior to any in history.

At the collective level, control over AI regulations is seen as a key to global dominance. The US and EU have long recognised this along with China. Though neither the EU nor China has brazenly declared that their goal in regulation is global dominance, it is the inexorable path control over a transformative technology takes.

Today’s tussle shares eerie similarities with that over trade routes in the 16th and 17th centuries. While we Indians remained content, the nations that would soon be global trading powers were quickly grabbing control of the routes. In more recent decades, control over technology and basic scientific research gave the US a pre-eminence that endures.

All countries agree that AI regulation is necessary. Broadly, those agreed up to 2023 were driven by control over large-language models, but the possibilities of agentic AI, which is already more autonomous than was predicted, make it clear that the regulations need to be thought through deeper.

The EU regulations are risk-based. They examine the potential harm an AI algorithm can cause, and categorise them into levels of risk: unacceptable, high, limited and minimal. The regulations then stipulate obligations upon various intermediate actors in the AI algorithm process, based upon the level of risk involved.

China and the US have declared their intent of controlling AI through regulation, though their approaches vary. After years of trying to adopt others’ regulatory frameworks, India now has a suggestion rooted in eastern ethics, thanks to an RBI panel

In India, Niti Aayog released a policy document in 2021 that noted the regulatory moves in various jurisdictions including the EU, US, and Singapore, and proposed a system aligned more with the EU regulations.

Next, the electronics and IT ministry’s AI advisory group released another policy document in 2023. This looked closer at the EU and Chinese regulations, and among its broader conclusions was the realisation that “adaptive governance is imperative for rapidly advancing technologies like AI”. The group then went on to suggest active guardrails around AI mechanisms as well as constant ability to reinsert human controls. The ultimate recommendation was in line with the EU model.

This is a useful starting point. However, there seems to be no attempt yet to root the regulatory response in the core values and philosophy that symbolise us as a nation. Creating regulations by adopting the EU norms, without regard to intrinsic cultural differences, could be harmful to us as a nation in the long run.

AI has the potential to influence social values through biases inherent in any model. The responses of an AI algorithm will nearly always reflect the biases of the society that generated the LLM. This is how AI can drive, say, neocolonialism, by engendering external social biases.

India’s ethos is steeped in morality and ethical introspection. We can adopt a regulatory approach that is not based on the US or EU’s individual-centric model.

On August 13, the RBI published the report of a committee set up to suggest a ‘responsible and ethical enablement of AI’ in the financial sector. For the very first time, an Indian regulatory body adopted an ‘eastern’ approach by suggesting basing the regulatory framework on morality, calling for heeding the ‘Seven sutras’.

It recommends that when financial institutions incorporate AI algorithms, they must follow the seven cardinal principles of trust (inspiring public confidence), people first (human dignity and inclusivity), innovation, fairness (prioritising dharmaic conduct over profit), accountability, understandability, and safety.

This is a break from the Niti Aayog’s ‘Look West’ approach. Adopting foreign models without critically assessing their cultural fit risks creating a regulatory framework that alienates the very society it seeks to protect.

Centuries ago, we slavishly adopted some of the habits and values of European colonisers and nearly destroyed ourselves. Will our approach to AI be different?

Authority, that administers the Ayushman Bharat Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana, brought out a working paper in 2019 highlighting that hysterectomy claims under the scheme comprised almost 2 percent of claims for all female packages in 24 states in the first nine months (September 2018 to May 2019). The paper stressed the need for monitoring claims over time. Following this, the NHA in 2019 introduced pre-authorisation requirements for claims. For instance, a mandatory second gynaecological opinion and uploading of clinical or USG findings on the portal is required for women under 40 years.

The Union health ministry is clearly aware of this issue and noted in an advisory that “private empanelled healthcare providers are proceeding with the surgery (hysterectomy) without waiting for pre-auth approval, even after preauth processing doctor has asked a query/ clarification”. In 2022, it issued guidelines on unnecessary hysterectomies, including the creation of monitoring committees at district, state and national levels to gather data on surgeries across public and private facilities.

This issue requires a multi-pronged approach. Firstly, more recent and detailed data are needed on the prevalence of hysterectomy. NFHS should include questions on how women paid for the surgery to ascertain the role of public health insurance in rising cases. Secondly, greater awareness needs to be spread among women about the harmful effects of early hysterectomy. For heavy menstrual bleeding, which is the most cited reason, conservative treatment options like hormonal contraceptive pills and hormonal IUDs need to be promoted. Lastly, there should be stricter surveillance and medical audits.

It is also worth examining whether such practices are guided by the misplaced perpetuation of population control policies/ mindset, as it has implications not just for women’s health but also for our demography at a time when India’s fertility rate is already below replacement level.

The trend of unnecessary hysterectomies highlights a deeper challenge in healthcare delivery. When private providers operate within insurance-funded systems, without transparency and accountability, there is hardly any pushback from patients as they are insured. This presents a classic case of market failure due to asymmetric information, which heavily burdens the medical system with overprescription, drives up health costs, and strains public finances.

Sudarshan Chakra system both a shield and a sword, says CDS

Colossal amount of data will need to be analysed for info and real-time response, he adds

MAYANK SINGH @ Mhow

CHIEF of Defence Staff (CDS) General Anil Chauhan on Tuesday underscored the significance of the indigenous 'Sudarshan Chakra', an umbrella shield system designed to protect people and property. "The aim is to develop a system to protect India's strategic, civilian, and nationally important sites. It will act both as a shield and as a sword," he asserted.

It will be "India's own Iron Dome (Israel's missile shield) or Golden Dome." The CDS added, "A colossal amount of data will need to be analysed for information and real-time response." For a vast country like India, a project of the magnitude of Mission Sudarshan Chakra will require a whole-of-nation approach, he said, adding, "I am sure we will do it at an affordable cost."

General Chauhan was delivering the keynote address at the two-day sui generis Tri-service dialogue on war, warfare, and war-fighting 'RAN SAMWAD-2025' being held at the Army War College in Dr Ambedkar Nagar, Madhya Pradesh.

'Sudarshan Chakra will be India's Iron Dome'

It will be "India's own Iron Dome (Israel's missile shield) or Golden Dome." The CDS said, "A colossal amount of data will need to be analysed for information and real-time response." For a vast country like India, a project of the magnitude of Mission Sudarshan Chakra will require a whole-of-nation approach, he added.

The event, which brings serving military professionals to the forefront of strategic dialogue, will witness Defence Minister Rajnath Singh delivering the plenary address on the final day. A few Joint Doctrines and the Technology Perspective & Capability Roadmap will also be released during the event.

The CDS's remarks follow Prime Minister Narendra Modi's call for Mission Sudarshan Chakra, which aims to develop military capabilities to guard India from aerial attacks within ten years.

Notably, this newspaper reported on Sunday that India successfully tested the maiden flight of the Integrated Air Defence Weapon system.

As reported, the aim of the test was to strengthen the country's air defence preparedness. The Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) successfully conducted the maiden flight tests of the Integrated Air Defence Weapon System (IADWS) off the coast of Odisha on Saturday.

According to DRDO, IADWS is a multi-layered air defence system comprising all indigenous Quick Reaction Surface to Air Missiles (QRSAM), Advanced Very Short Range Air Defence System (VSHORADS) missiles and a high-power laser-based Directed Energy Weapon.

Referring to Operation Sindoor, General Chauhan called it a modern conflict which have led to learning several lessons. "Most of the lessons are under implementation, and some have been implemented."

The CDS emphasised the transformative shifts in military strategy.

IAF chief cautions against hasty structural changes

MAYANK SINGH @ Mhow

IN a significant statement on the ongoing exercise to reorganise the war-fighting machinery into theatres, the Chief of Air Staff (CAS) has cautioned against making hasty changes to the existing structures.

The Indian Air Force has been reiterating that it is not opposed to the tri-services theatisation plan, but Air Chief Marshal AP Singh on Tuesday stressed the need to retain the core competence of each service, and the decision to restructure should not be taken hastily.

He was speaking at a fireside chat at the Ran Samwad tri-services dialogue on war, warfare, and warfighting, RAN SAMWAD-2025, held at the Army War College in Dr Ambedkar Nagar, Madhya Pradesh.

While the aim is to bring in quick decision-making at the commanders' level, he said that "as far as joint structures are concerned, it should not add layers to the decision-making process".

He quoted the example of the role of the Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) during Operation

'Joint planning important'

Sindoor, saying that he "played a very big role during Operation Sindoor – he was orchestrating the whole thing among four of us (CDS and the three service chiefs)".

He underlined the importance of joint planning, saying, "Just four of us together and planning, we did not find any gaps during the operation – everything was sorted out. Therefore, I believe joint planning and execution at the apex level are what is required. – because (if) the direction goes from there, things will fall in place." He added, "There is no need for another structure."

At the same time, he said, "Yes, we can start with this first and implement it to see how it pans out. If any more structure is needed, we can think about it, but disrupting everything and making a new structure at this time, I don't think is a very good idea".

However, he discounted having theatre commands. "We can't pick up from other countries like China or the US have theatre commands. We need to consider what we need; otherwise, we will go wrong. We should not be under pressure that we need to do it now – 'aisa nahi karna hai'"

"Having Joint Planning and Coordination Centre in Delhi is what is required, keeping it under the Chief of Staff Committee," the air chief said, as a solution to the issue.

PM to make pitch against cross-border terror at SCO summit during China visit

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

INDIA is set to make a strong pitch against cross-border terrorism at the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) Summit later this week, with Prime Minister Narendra Modi expected to call for a firm collective stance from member states on terrorism.

Modi will travel to Tianjin, China, from August 31 to September 1 for the SCO summit, where India is pushing for a clear reiteration of the bloc's condemnation of terrorism, particularly cross-border terror, a veiled reference to terrorism emanating from Pakistan.

"We are working with other members and partners to ensure there is a strong condemnation of terrorism, including cross-border terrorism," said MEA Secretary (West) Tanmaya Lal on Tuesday, adding that the language in the final declaration is in its final stages of negotiation.

The SCO summit comes amid efforts to stabilise relations with Beijing, which have remained tense since the deadly border clashes in 2020. More than 20 world leaders, including Russian President Vladimir Putin, are expected to attend the SCO summit.

Ahead of the SCO meet, Modi will visit Japan from August 29 to 30 for the 15th India-Japan Annual Summit with Prime Minister Shigeru Ishiba, where regional cooperation under the Quad framework will be a key part of the agenda.

India and Japan, both Quad members along with the US and Australia, are expected to expand cooperation in critical minerals, defence, ship maintenance, and space. Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri said on Tuesday that the Quad has evolved into a platform for "practical cooperation" on key Indo-Pacific priorities.

"There's an initiative with regard to critical minerals and resilient supply chains that is a priority for both India and Japan," Misri said, adding that Quad will feature in Modi's discussions with Ishiba.

Shah says demography changes in border areas a 'deliberate design'

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

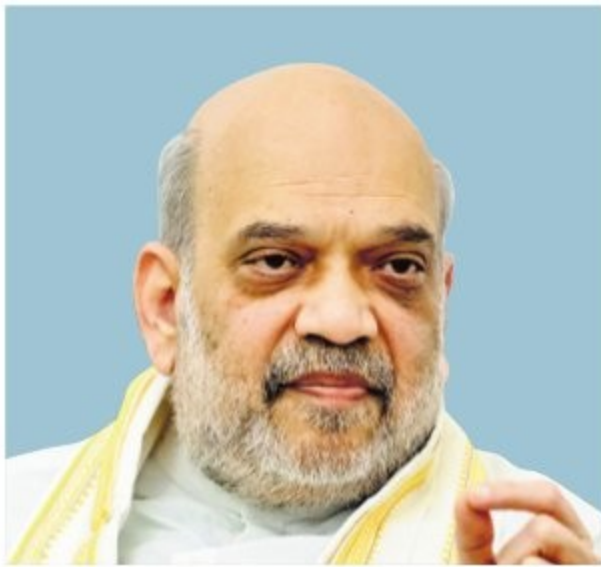

INAUGURATING the two-day Vibrant Villages Programme (VVP) workshop here, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday said that demographic changes in the border areas have been occurring as part of a deliberate design.

Noting that the demographic trend in the border areas directly impacts the security of the country, Shah said, "It should not be assumed that this is happening due to geographical conditions, rather, it is occurring as part of a deliberate design."

Urging the collectors of border districts to take appropriate action to remove illegal religious encroachments, the Home Minister stressed that all illegal encroachments within at least a 30-kilometre radius from the border should be removed.

Commending the work done by the Gujarat government in this regard, the Union Ministry of Home Affairs in a statement said that the western state has cleared numerous encroachments along both maritime and land borders.

Meanwhile, the Home Minister said that the VVP is based on three key factors - preventing migration from border villages, ensuring that every citizen of border villages receives cent per cent benefits of Central and state government schemes, and developing the villages into strong tools to strengthen border and national security.

"Since Prime Minister Narendra Modi designated the last village of the country as the first village, our perspective towards border villages has changed," the Home Minister said, while also launching the logo of the VVP.

Shah said that the villages identified early under the VVP, in a few years, would prove to be very significant tools in the security of our country and its borders.

The Home Minister said that it is the responsibility of the Chief Secretaries of state governments, District Collectors

VVP to strengthen security of villages included in the VVP, and all Central Armed Police Forces (CAPFs) to not limit themselves to the VVP alone and to consider what additional steps can be taken beyond the programme to achieve its objectives.

He said that if initiatives like homestays are extended to border villages and state tourism departments make proper arrangements for bookings, every household in these border villages will have employment opportunities.

The centrally-sponsored VVP, which was launched in 2023, was brought in for comprehensive development of the select villages in border districts or northern, northeast and north-western borders of India. The phase two of the project was launched in April 2025 with an outlay of ₹6,839 crore till the Financial Year 2028-29.

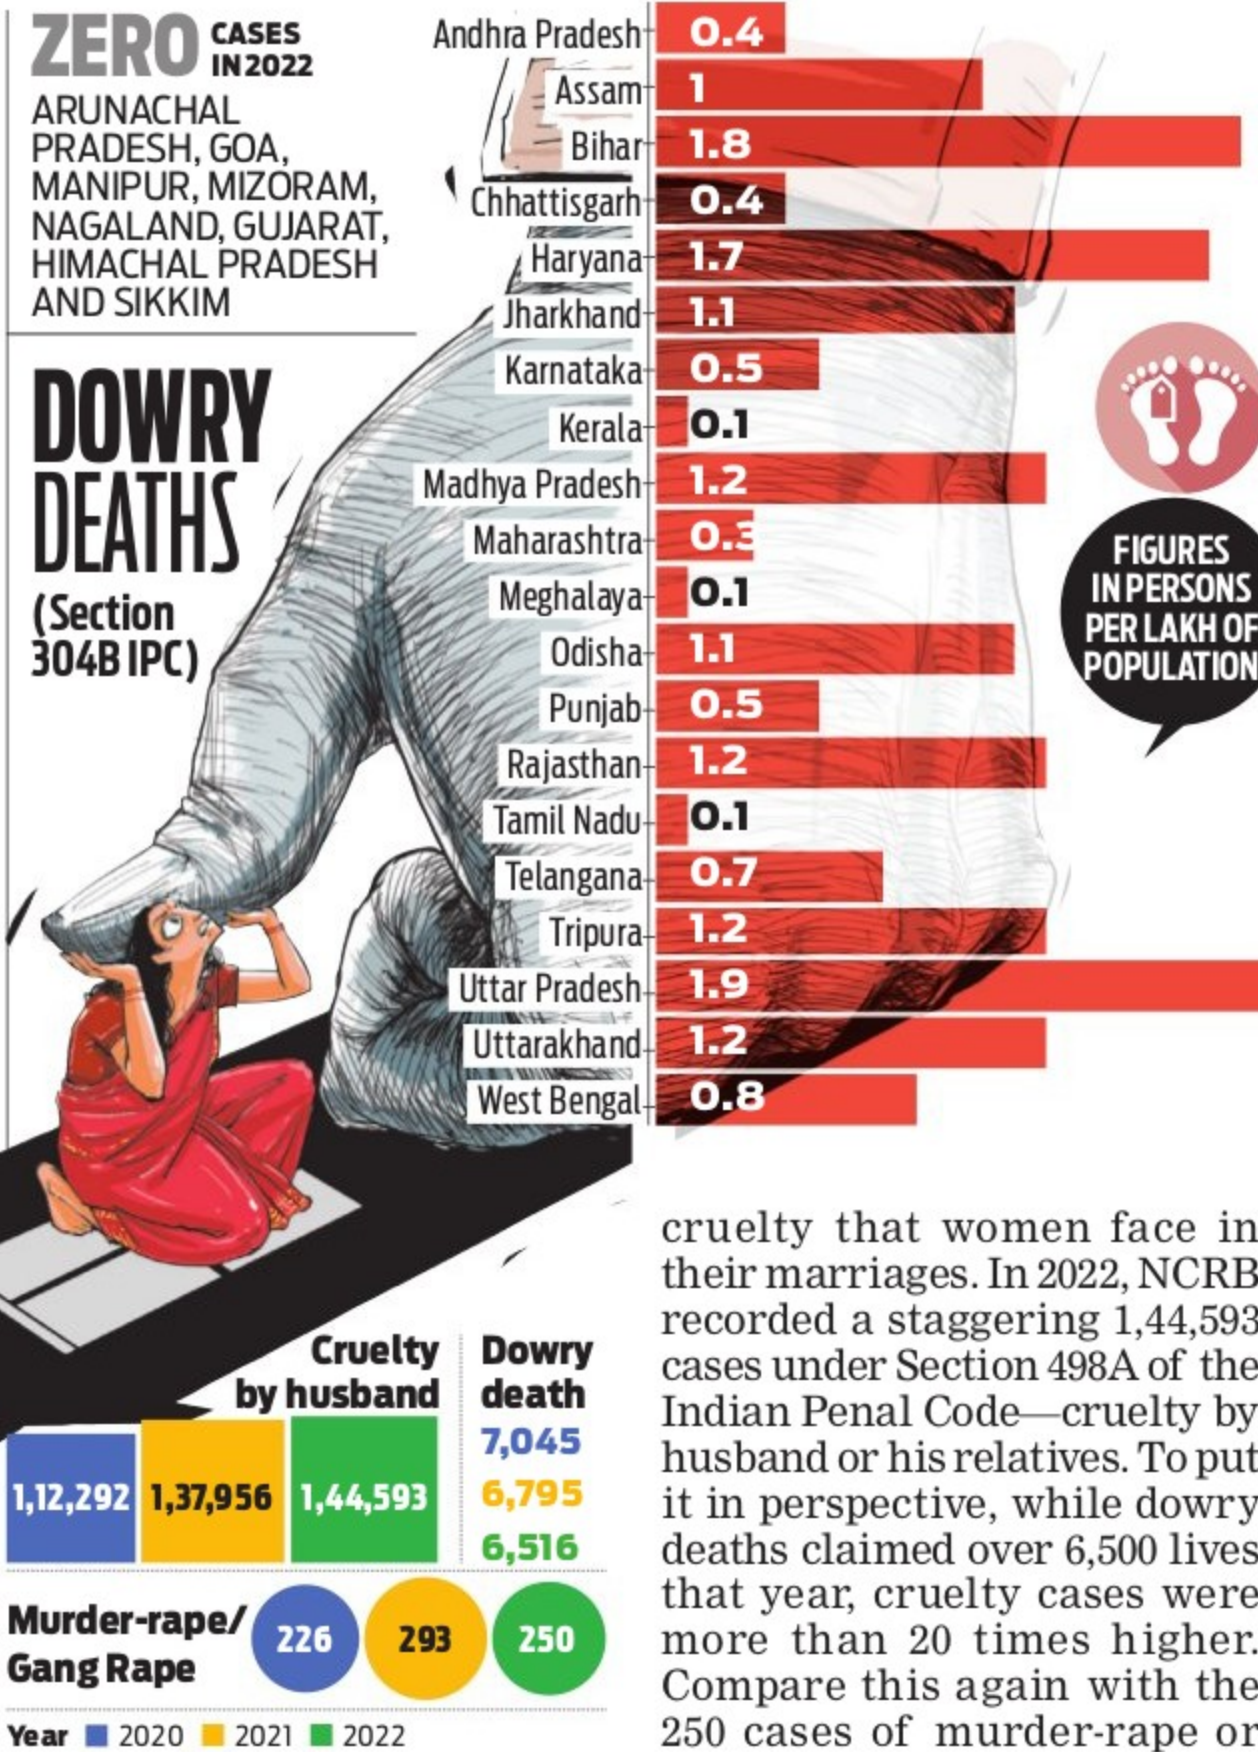

DOWRY DEATHS REMAIN A GRIM REALITY

VISMAY BASU @ New Delhi

A harrowing case in Greater Noida has again brought the reality of dowry deaths into the spotlight. Nikki Bhati (28) was allegedly set ablaze by her husband over dowry demands.

The incident is not an aberration but part of a chilling trend that continues to claim thousands of lives every year. The National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB) data paints a grim picture: in 2022 alone, 6,516 dowry deaths were reported. Though this represents a slight decline from 7,045 in 2020, the numbers remain stubbornly high. Uttar Pradesh tops the list with 2,142 dowry deaths in 2022, followed by Bihar with 1,057, Madhya Pradesh with 520, Rajasthan with 451, and West Bengal with 427. States like Haryana, with 234 such deaths, and Odisha, with 263, add to the disturbing tally. Adjusted for population, UP reports 1.9 dowry deaths per lakh women, Bihar 1.8, Haryana 1.7, and MP 1.2.

The tragedy, however, is only the tip of an iceberg of gender violence. What is less visible, but no less disturbing, is the gang-rape in 2022.

In 2020, police recorded 1,12,292 cruelty cases, a figure that increased to 1,44,593 by 2022. Over the same period, dowry deaths remained steady between 6,500 and 7,000 annually, while murder-rapes stayed under 300. The consistency of dowry deaths combined with the steep rise in cruelty cases shows that the problem is worsening. Despite legal reforms—ranging from the Dowry Prohibition Act to provisions under Section 304B IPC—the enforcement remains weak.

State-wise breakdowns reveal both scale and concentration. Beyond UP and Bihar, states like Jharkhand (214 deaths), MP (520), and Odisha (263) contribute heavily to the national burden. Smaller but populous states such as Assam (195 deaths) and Haryana (234) also reflect alarming rates, highlighting that the issue spans regions. By contrast, states like Kerala, with 12 reported cases, and Tamil Nadu, with 29, show that lower prevalence is possible but still far from eradication.

The Nikki Bhati case reminds us that the fight is against a system of everyday cruelty that makes such deaths possible.

Centre revises wheat stock limit 2nd time in 3 months ahead of festivals

JITENDRA CHOUHEY @ New Delhi

TO prevent hoarding and unscrupulous speculation during the upcoming festive season, the Centre has imposed stock limits on wheat for traders, retailers, large chain retailers, and processors across all states and union territories.

In the latest revision, the central government has reduced the stock limit for traders and wholesalers from 3,000 metric tonnes (MT) to 2,000 MT. For retailers and large chain retailers, the limit has been reduced from 10 MT to 8 MT.

For big retail chains, 8MT will be the maximum stock that can be held at all their retail outlets and depots put together. Additionally, for processors, the stock limit is now set at 60% of their monthly installed capacity, down from the previous limit of 70% of their monthly processing capacity.

The Centre has decided to revise the wheat stock's limit applicable until March 31, 2026. The last stock limit revision was imposed on May 27 of this year, just after end of procure season.

To stop hoarding

- Stock limit for traders, wholesalers from 3,000 MT to 2,000 MT
- For retailers and large chain retailers, limit reduced from 10 MT to 8 MT
- For processors, stock limit reduced from 70%-60% of monthly installed capacity
- If stocks higher than prescribed limits, it should be brought down in 15 days
- Total production of 1,175 Lakh Metric Tonnes of wheat in 2024-25

The order has directed commercial entities to declare stock position on the government portal created by the Department of Food and Public Distribution.

It also said that if any entity stocks higher than the prescribed limits, they should bring it down to the specified limit within 15 days of issuing this notification and should ensure that stock is regularly declared.

The order has been issued with immediate effect under the Removal of Licensing Requirements, Stock Limits and Movement Restrictions on Specified Foodstuffs (Amendment) Order, 2024.

Officials of the Central and State Governments will be closely monitoring the enforcement of these stock limits to ensure that no artificial scarcity of wheat is created. The government claimed that the country had registered a total production of 1,175.07 Lakh Metric Tonnes (LMT) of wheat during the crop year 2024-25.

"Central Government has procured 300.35 LMT wheat in Rabi Marketing Season 2025-26 through State Agencies or Food Corporation of India which is sufficient to meet requirements of public distribution, open sale, and other markets interventions," it further states.

In green mobility push, Modi says world will drive made-in-India EVs

Unveils exports to 100 nations from Gujarat, calls it a decisive step towards self-reliance

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday unveiled a landmark leap in India's clean mobility drive from Hansalpur, Gujarat, announcing that Electric Vehicles made in India will now be exported to 100 countries, and hybrid battery electrode manufacturing has begun. Calling it a "new chapter in Bharat's Make in India journey," the PM projected India as the hub of EVs, semiconductors, and futuristic industries, while tying it to India-Japan friendship and his vision of a Viksit Bharat by 2047.

Modi inaugurated the country's latest green mobility initiatives on Tuesday. Linking the moment to Ganeshotsav festivities, he declared: "Make in India, Make for the World from today, EVs made in India will be exported to 100 countries." He also announced the start of hybrid battery electrode manufacturing, describing it as a decisive step toward achieving Atmanirbhar Bharat.

Stressing India's strengths, he said, "India has the power of democracy, the advantage of demography and a very large pool of skilled workforce, making it a win-win situation for

'... those bullying us won't be able to stand'

Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan said, "Those bullying us will not be able to stand anywhere, if we open our third eye." Addressing an event in Gwalior, he said, "Our PM Narendra Modi has made it amply clear that the interests of our farmers will not be compromised, irrespective of how big any Dada (power) is." He appealed to the entire nation of 144 crore to adopt the spirit of Swadeshi in their daily lives.

every partner." The PM underlined that the day was also a tribute to India-Japan friendship, recalling his 2012 decision as Gujarat CM to allot land in Hansalpur to Maruti Suzuki.

That foresight, he said, has now bloomed into India's expanding EV story. Paying tribute to Maruti's visionary Osamu Suzuki, Modi said the late industrialist's dream was now visible in India's global exports.

He pointed out that Suzuki cars manufactured in India are being exported even to Japan, a testament to both Make in India's credibility and India's growing trust in the global supply chain. "The world will drive EVs that say Made in India," he asserted. Turning to the EV ecosystem, the Prime Minister noted that until recently, India imported all its batteries; however, domestic production has now begun with Japanese partners through TDSG. It is India's first Lithium-ion Battery manufacturer for hybrid vehicles, a joint venture between Toshiba Corporation, DENSO Corporation, and Suzuki Motor Corporation. This, he said, would boost hybrid EV growth and cement India's self-reliance.

He also lauded Maruti Suzuki for swiftly developing a prototype hybrid ambulance under his PM E-DRIVE scheme, stressing that EVs were no longer "alternatives" but real solutions for pollution, healthcare, and mobility.

Modi weaved the larger picture, recalling that policy moves since 2014, including Make in India, PLI incentives, logistics parks, and industrial corridors, had transformed India into a manufacturing magnet.

He cited hard numbers: electronics output up 500 percent, mobile phones up 2,700 percent, and defence production up 200 percent in a decade. He urged companies to invest in youth exchange and skill development, stressing that India-Japan cooperation now extended beyond trade to a people-to-people connection. "India's ongoing efforts are strengthening this bond, and both nations see their progress in each other's development," he said.

Murder suspected as Raj paper leak accused dies in mysterious circumstances

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

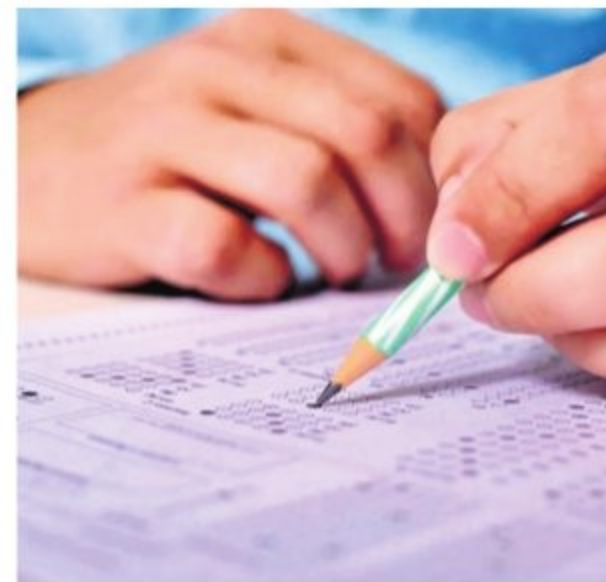

THE alleged mastermind of the Rajasthan Public Service Commission (RPSC) paper leak scam, Amrit Lal Meena, has died under suspicious circumstances in Varanasi.

The 56-year-old Meena, a resident of Karauli district, was admitted to a private hospital in Varanasi in Uttar Pradesh from August 21 to 23.

The family was shifting him to Jaipur on a ventilator after he was referred from a Varanasi hospital on August 24. However, he suddenly died while on way to Agra.

His body was later taken to Hindaun City District Hospital, where a post-mortem was conducted before being handed over to the family.

Alleging that Amrit Lal was murdered in Varanasi by poisoning, his family has lodged a complaint at Nadauti police station. Acting on the complaint, the police registered a zero FIR and forwarded the same to Sigra police station in Varanasi for further investigation. According to sources, the family received a call from a person named RK Singh Bihari of Varanasi, who informed them about Amrit Lal's hospitalisation. However, when the family reached Varanasi on Sunday, RK Singh's phone was switched off. It is alleged that RK Singh too was involved in the paper leak racket.

Amrit Lal, a former government college lecturer, was one of the key accused in the 2013 Rajasthan Administrative Service (RAS) exam paper leak case.

Investigations revealed that out of the top 50 candidates in the RAS-2013 merit list, 32 belonged to his area, with nearly 20 from his own family and relatives. Following this, the RPSC sent a confidential note to the Special Operations Group, which exposed the racket of leaking and selling competitive exam papers.

Amrit Lal and his gang allegedly charged ₹30 lakh per candidate for ensuring success in both prelims and mains.

Mamata takes 'respect our chair' jibe at Modi for flagging TMC 'graft'

KAUSHIK PRADHAN @ Kolkata

WEST Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Tuesday hit back at Prime Minister Narendra Modi's recent comments linking the Trinamool Congress with corruption and crime, urging him to show mutual respect. Speaking at a government programme in Bardhaman town in Purba Bardhaman district, Banerjee said, "I respect the Prime Minister's chair, but he should also respect ours. Why should he say, 'I stopped the funds because there are thieves in Bengal'?"

She termed Modi's remarks, made during an August 22 rally in Dum Dum, an "insult to the people of Bengal." Accusing the Centre of withholding legitimate dues, Banerjee alleged a "stepmotherly attitude" by the Union government has strained the state's finances.

"We have provided 76% water supply in rural areas and 78% in urban areas, spending over ₹38,000 crore. We still need ₹65,000 crore more," she said.

She claimed the Centre has stopped funding five key schemes, forcing the state to bear the full cost. Banerjee also took aim at BJP-ruled "double engine" states like Uttar Pradesh and Maharashtra, calling them "the biggest thieves."

'We have answered all queries of Centre'

Alleging that Modi travels to West Bengal "like a migratory bird every time there is an election knocking on doors," Banerjee claimed that the state administration has replied to all queries of the Centre about utilisation of central funds for welfare schemes. "Yet you stop fund disbursement," she said

Criticising the Centre for sending "186 teams" to Bengal, she accused Modi of targeting the state unfairly ahead of elections. On the GST front, Banerjee reiterated her demand to exempt health insurance from GST, warning that West Bengal would lose ₹900 crore annually due to such a move. She had earlier written to Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on the issue.

"You can abuse me, but don't insult Bengal. I know how to fight," the CM added.

BJP started 'vote chori' in Gujarat first, says Rahul

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday triggered a political firestorm by alleging that the BJP began stealing votes for the first time in Gujarat, much before repeating the tactic at the national level in the 2014 general election.

Addressing "Samajik Adhikar Samvad" here, Gandhi claimed the BJP committed vote theft in every state, adding the theft was, however, caught when they did it on a massive scale in Maharashtra and Haryana.

He claimed that after he disclosed how vote theft was committed in an Assembly segment in Karnataka, no BJP leader, including the Prime Minister, responded to his allegations.

Gandhi said, "When Union Home Minister Amit Shah claimed a few years ago that the BJP government would be in power for 40-50 years, I found his statement surprising. But he can say so as his party is stealing votes."

He said a new law was enacted in 2023 to see that no case (judicial action) could be taken against the Election Commission, and alleged it was done to ensure that the BJP could steal votes with impunity.

Rahul's voter yatra reaches crescendo as Priyanka joins

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THE 'Voter Adhikar Yatra' reached a crescendo when Congress MP Priyanka Gandhi Vadra joined the rally, which entered its tenth day on Tuesday. Priyanka's participation in the yatra on the auspicious occasion of 'Tej' is being viewed as a morale booster for the INDIA bloc supporters, especially women, who, like in previous elections, will play a crucial role in the upcoming state assembly elections.

Telangana CM Revanth Reddy also joined the 16-day, 3000-km Yatra, covering 23 districts of the state. Rahul, along with Priyanka, Revanth, Dipankar Bhattacharya (CPI-ML), and Mukesh Sahani (VIP), travelled from Supaul to Madhubani in an SUV, waving to the people waiting for hours on the roads in long queues and bracing the scorching sun.

The 51-km stretch from Hussain Chowk in Supaul and Lohia Chowk in Madhubani district was adorned with welcome arches and flags representing the INDIA allies. Young people carrying flags accompanied the cavalcade, while women and girls welcomed the leaders from the rooftops and balconies of multi-storied buildings.

Standing in the middle of the Gandhi siblings was Revanth, who also greeted the gathered people.

During the yatra, Rahul interacted with a youth named Prem Sagar Kumar, who introduced himself as someone who has undergone one year of training at ISRO. Kumar lashed out at the state government for its poor education system, expressing his aspiration to become a scientist despite facing financial constraints.

As the rally reached Lohia Chowk, Phulparas (Madhubani), for breakfast, a large number of supporters gathered to meet their leaders, raising "Vote Chor Gaddi Chhod" slogan at regular intervals. RJD leader Tejashwi Prasad Yadav also joined the yatra later. Security personnel had a tough time managing the crowd.

Cong chief's 'MP women consume more alcohol' remark triggers uproar

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

MADHYA Pradesh Congress president Jitu Patwari has stirred a major political storm by claiming that women in the state consume more alcohol than anywhere else in the country. Speaking at a press conference in Bhopal, Patwari said, "Madhya Pradesh has got a medal for women in the state consuming more alcohol than anywhere else. Not only this, but overall alcohol consumption is maximum in MP. The BJP has ruined the situation."

He further alleged that the state also tops in drug trade, even more than Punjab. "Our CM has done nothing to fight the drug menace. The BJP got votes in the name of Ladli Behnas, and now it's the sisters and daughters of MP who are into addiction more than anywhere else in the country," he said.

Patwari also blamed the BJP for rising unemployment and drug abuse, adding, "If your son is unemployed and returns home under the influence of drugs, I hold the BJP. Shivraj Singh Chouhan, and Mohan Yadav responsible."

However, Patwari's claims are contradicted by official data. As per the National Family Health Survey-5, only 1.6% of women in MP consume alcohol, compared to 26% in Arunachal Pradesh and 16.2% in Sikkim. Launching a strong counterattack, the BJP demanded an apology from the Congress high command. BJP national spokesperson Dr Sudhanshu Trivedi said Patwari's remarks reflect an "anti-women mindset" and insult the women of MP. Chief Minister Mohan Yadav said, "MP will not tolerate the dubbing of Ladli Behnas as sharabis."

State BJP president Hemant Khandelwal and spokesperson Neha Bagga also condemned Patwari's "insulting" and "factually incorrect" remarks, demanding an apology to women, especially on the occasion of Hartalika Teej. Meanwhile, in a post on 'X', MP BJP president Hemant Khandelwal said, "Today, when crores of sisters across the country are observing Hartalika Teej fast with pure devotion, using such indecent and insulting language against the women's power is not only an insult to the Indian culture but also to the faith of crores of women."

Punjab, Himachal reel under rain fury, floods

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

INCESSANT rainfall over the past few days has thrown life out of gear in Punjab and Himachal Pradesh, with swollen rivers, flooded villages, road blockades and widespread disruptions prompting authorities to issue high alerts and shut schools across several districts.

In Punjab, heavy rainfall in the catchment areas of Sutlej, Beas and Ravi rivers, coupled with surplus water released from the Pong, Bhakra and Ranjit Sagar dams, has inundated farmlands and villages across six districts—Gurdaspur, Tarn Taran, Hoshiarpur, Kapurthala, Ferozepur and Fazilka. The Ravi, in particular, has become a major concern in Gurdaspur, where inflows at Makora Pattan touched 2.50 lakh cusecs on Monday morning.

At Harike, where the Beas and Sutlej meet, the water level was 2.34 lakh cusecs, flooding thousands of acres of crops downstream in Tarn Taran, Ferozepur and Fazilka. As a precaution, schools and colleges in seven districts including Amritsar, Pathankot and Jalandhar will remain closed till August 30.

Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann announced a four-day closure for all schools, citing the IMD's forecast of more rain. Relief camps have been set up in flood-hit areas, with NDRF and SDRF teams deployed. Punjab Water Resources Minister Barinder Goyal said ₹276 crore has been allocated for flood protection and compensation, while a central flood control centre has been established in Jalandhar.

Meanwhile in Himachal Pradesh, continuous rainfall since Sunday has triggered landslides, flash floods and road cave-ins, severely affecting connectivity.

Fretting and fuming Eknath Shinde

Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde has been skipping key meetings called by CM Devendra Fadnis in recent times. In the last month, he had missed three cabinet meetings among several others. At the same time, Shinde's trips to Delhi have increased, to meet the top leaders of the BJP at every opportunity to express his frustrations and submit his demands. Shinde is not happy with the way his ministers are treated, how funds to his ministers' departments are blocked by DCM and Finance Minister Ajit Pawar, and the overdue appointment of guardian ministries. Shinde is not happy with the Mahayuti government, but seems to be confused about how to deal with it.

Fadnavis eyeing something big?

Devendra Fadnavis has been the Chief Minister of Maharashtra three times, and his eyes are reportedly set on Delhi. He appears to be interested in advancing to a key position in the national capital. The grapevine chatter suggests that something politically significant is likely to happen in September this year. His image makeover artists are ready with a strategy to create a positive buzz about his strengths as a strong development man and a hard-core Hindutva leader. His close associate Mohit Kumbhoj has already been entrusted with some of these tasks. Kumbhoj has reportedly engaged specialists from the media, PR, and policy worlds with hefty packages.

Keeping eggs in the right basket

The Maharashtra State Election Commission has announced that it's ready to conduct the local body elections and has even carried out the ward and area demarcations. However, BJP alliance partners, DCM Ajit Pawar-led NCP, and DCM Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena are unhappy with the demarcations, alleging that they favour the BJP more while fragmenting the vote bases of Pawar and Shinde. The complaint is that officers undertaking the demarcation of wards accepted suggestions from BJP leaders while rejecting those from alliance and opposition leaders. The word is out that it would be no surprise if the BJP emerges as a dominant force.

The Kiratpur-Manali National Highway has been blocked at multiple points after landslides in Mandi and the Beas River washed away large stretches near Manali.

A restaurant in Manali was swept away by the gushing waters, while locals were evacuated from Bahang and Alu Ground areas in Kullu district.

The IMD has issued a red alert for very heavy rain, lightning and thunderstorms in Chamba, Mandi and Kangra districts, warning of flash floods and landslides.

Till Monday evening, 677 roads, including three national highways, remained closed, with 342 blocked in Mandi alone. Over 1,400 power transformers and 420 water supply schemes have been disrupted.

Concerned authorities in both states have urged people to stay away from rivers and avoid non-essential travel, even as emergency teams work round the clock to monitor and mitigate the crisis.

● US is single-largest market for India's textile, apparel items ● Duty relief on electronics is temporary, future tariffs will depend on US national security probe outcome

Faced with 64% tariff, apparel worst hit sector

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

INDIA'S export engine of most of the labour intensive sector is likely to face a sharp deceleration as the US administration confirmed the imposition of 50% tariff on a wide range of Indian goods, sparing only a handful of categories such as electronics and pharmaceuticals.

Apparel products are the worst hit, with knitted garments facing overall tariff of 63.9% when combined with the Most Favoured Nation (MFN) duty. A report by the Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI) estimates 66% of India's $86.5 billion exports to the US will fall under 50% tariff slab, translating into $60.2 billion worth of goods. Organic chemicals and carpets will attract 54% and 52.9% tariffs, respectively.

The impact was partially visible. After August 6 announcement of imposition of additional 25% US tariff, Indian carpet exporters reported mass cancellations of US orders, forcing several units to curtail operations and lay off hundreds of artisans. The US is the single-largest market for India's textile and apparel items.

About 28% of India's textile and apparel exports go to the US. India's exports of textile and apparel products to the US in FY25 was close to $11 billion, cited Confederation of Indian Textile Industry (CITI), thereby underscoring the vulnerability.

The Federation of Indian Export Organisations (FIEO) said units in Tirupur, Noida and Surat have paused production, squeezed by spiralling costs. Carpet and apparel sectors remain more vulnerable due to lower-cost rivals from Vietnam and Bangladesh. FIEO president SC Ralhan warned that labour-intensive sectors like textiles, carpets, handicrafts, leather and ceramics risk a sharp erosion of competitiveness, especially against European, South-East Asian and Mexican rivals. Exports of diamonds, gold and jewellery, valued at $10 billion annually, face duties jumping from 2.1% to 52.1%, threatening jobs in polishing hubs like Surat, Mumbai and Jaipur. US buyers may shift to suppliers in Israel, Belgium, China and Mexico.

"Shrimp exporters, who send more than half their output to the US, fear steep losses and order cancellations. This also impacts the prices for US consumers and makes India less competitive against rivals like Ecuador," according to a report by SBI. The auto components sector is expected to be only marginally affected, though MSME suppliers of gearbox and transmission equipment will be impacted.

No reciprocal tariff on Indian electronics exports to the US

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a relief for Indian electronics manufacturers, the US has granted a temporary exemption from the 50% reciprocal tariffs on a range of Indian exports, including smartphones, switching and routing equipment, integrated circuits, and semiconductors.

This exemption is linked to an ongoing Section 232 national security investigation in the US, which currently permits duty-free imports of these critical electronic products. However, the relief is temporary, and the imposition of future tariffs will depend on the outcome of the investigation.

The Trump administration had earlier announced multiple rounds of reciprocal tariffs of up to 50% on Indian goods, set to take effect from August 27. Earlier this month, President Donald Trump also declared an additional 25% tariff on Indian imports in response to India's continued purchase of Russian crude oil.

The exemption is expected to benefit major players such as Apple and Samsung, both of which have significantly expanded manufacturing footprint in India. As per recent data, India became the largest supplier of smartphones to the US in Q2, 2025, accounting for 44% of market share. India has now overtaken China as the leading smartphone exporter to the US. In June 2025, India's electronics exports to the US surged by 23.5% to $8.3 billion, with mobile phones—particularly iPhones—being the key growth driver. For the fiscal year 2024-25, India recorded a trade surplus of $8.7 billion in electronics exports to the US, a sharp turnaround from a $0.6 billion deficit in FY17.

Markets crack 1% as India braces for 50% tariff on exports to US

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

Rupee falls for 5th day on tariff worries

Rupee fell for fifth straight session on Tuesday jittered by weak sentiment as traders and exporters braced for punitive 25% tariffs kicks in Wednesday. The currency closed 18 paise lower at 87.74 against dollar. Rupee has lost 2.5% in FY26 so far and 2.39% in 2025 so far. In August, it fell about 0.11% against greenback. On Monday rupee pared initial gains to settle 4 paise lower at 87.56 against the dollar.

DOMESTIC equity market plunged sharply on Tuesday following a move by the Trump administration to impose new tariffs of up to 50% on Indian imports, effective Wednesday, (August 27). The draft notice, which targets various Indian goods, sparked fears of a renewed trade war and triggered a broad-based market decline.

At close, the BSE Sensex fell 849.37 points, or 1.04%, to settle at 80,786.54, while the NSE Nifty fell 255.70 points, or 1.02%, to end at 24,712.05. The broader markets underperformed, with the BSE Midcap index slipping 1.3% and the Smallcap index falling 1.7%.

Investors' wealth eroded by ₹6 lakh crore in a single session as market capitalisation of BSE-listed firms fell to ₹449 lakh crore from ₹455 lakh crore on Monday. "Indian equities extended losses on Tuesday, weighed down by global trade concerns ahead of implementation of fresh US tariffs on Indian goods. US President had notified an additional 25% duty, taking total levy to 50%," said Siddhartha Khemka - head of research, wealth management, Motilal Oswal Financial Services.

Khemka added that global sentiment was further hit after the US President moved to fire Fed Governor Lisa Cook on allegations of falsifying mortgage documents, while threatening export curbs on chips in retaliation against digital services taxes. Market volatility rose with India VIX climbing over 3%, signalling heightened risk aversion and caution among market participants.

Ajit Mishra - SVP, Research Religare Broking, said sentiment as largely dampened by caution ahead of upcoming tariff deadline, which weighed on export-sensitive sectors. He added that this pressure was compounded by sustained foreign institutional investor (FII) selling, a weakening rupee, and a rebound in crude oil prices, prompting investors to reduce risk exposure.

FIIs' net sales in the equity market stood at staggering ₹6,580.13 crore on Tuesday.

Dependence on Chinese supply setback for local battery makers: Bhargava

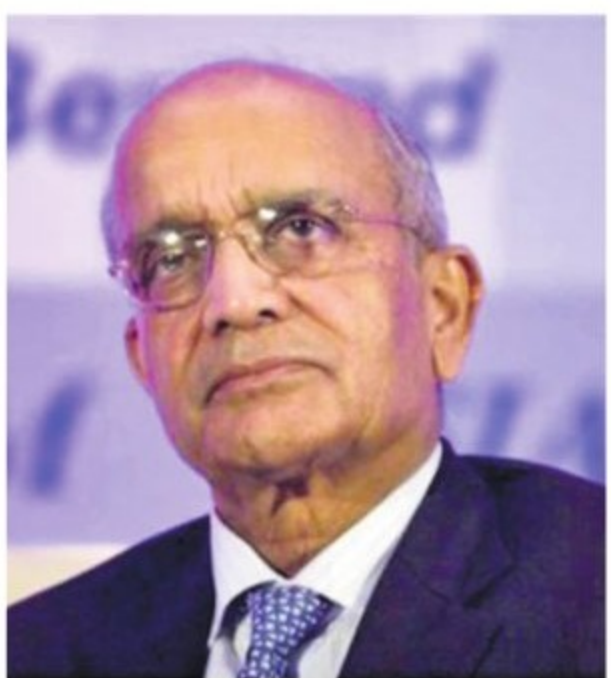

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

RC Bhargava, chairman of Maruti Suzuki India Ltd (MSIL), said dependence on China for raw materials (primarily lithium) is the primary reason why companies are not interested in manufacturing battery cells in India. Bhargava also cited the high capital required to set up a cell manufacturing facility as another reason why investors shy away from manufacturing cells required in electric vehicles.

"Nobody is making battery cells in India. One of the problems of EVs today is that people are packaging cells into batteries, but actual production of cell is not taking place in India," said Bhargava on the sidelines of an event which marks beginning of exports of Maruti Suzuki's first electric vehicle e-VITARA to 100 countries, and the inauguration of production of lithium-ion battery cells for strong hybrid electric vehicles at its facility here.

With an estimated 70-77% share of the global market, China dominates EV battery manufacturing. This control stems from its mastery of entire supply chain, from raw material mining and processing to production of components and final assembly.

Bhargava said setting up plants for production of battery cells is a capital-intensive proposition. Citing industry estimates, he said it could cost about ₹20,000 crore to put up a battery plant. "Raw material (lithium) is a problem. If I put up a plant, if raw material is not available to me, as an investor, what is my risk given raw material is controlled by one supplier?...risk is very high... That is one of the factors which is making people stay away from making investments in battery manufacturing in India," he stated.

Commenting on rare-earth magnet shortage caused by Chinese restrictions, another critical area where China controls supply chain, he said it was a "warning signal". He, however, expressed confidence that the issue is likely to be resolved amid improving relations between India and China. When asked if MSIL or parent firm Suzuki Motor Corporation is exploring partnerships with firms to solve raw material problem, he added, "Either you partner with a Chinese company, give them majority and let them set up, and they assure you supply of raw material, but so far no one has done it yet."

Suzuki to invest ₹70k cr over 5-6 years

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

SUZUKI Motor Corporation (SMC), parent company of Maruti Suzuki (MSIL), India's largest carmaker, will invest Rs 70,000 crore in the country over the next five-six years, said Toshihiro Suzuki, Representative Director & President, Suzuki Motor Corporation on Tuesday.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Toshihiro Suzuki jointly flagged off the e-VITARA - Suzuki's first global battery electric vehicle (BEV) - at the company's Hansalpur plant in Gujarat on Tuesday. PM Modi also flagged India's first lithium-ion battery and cell with electrode-level localization at Hansalpur. "Suzuki will invest over ₹70,000 crore in India, over the next five to six years...We remain committed to supporting India's vision for sustainable green mobility and contributing to Viksit Bharat," said Toshihiro Suzuki.

Maruti Suzuki has facilities in two Indian states: Haryana and Gujarat. The automaker is scaling up output at its plants as it works toward achieving a production capacity of 4 million units by FY2030-31, which represents a doubling from its present capability.

He added that the Gujarat facility, serving customers across India and global markets will shortly become one of the world's largest automobile manufacturing hubs, with a planned capacity of 1 million

Vodafone Idea in advanced talks to raise ₹5,000 crore via debt financing

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

TELECOM service provider Vodafone Idea is reportedly in advanced talks to raise about ₹5,000 crore through debt financing, as part of its ongoing turnaround strategy.

As per a report, the funds will be raised by Vodafone Idea Telecom Infrastructure, a subsidiary that holds a portion of the company's telecom infrastructure and renewable energy assets. It plans to issue bonds with tenors of two and three years, aiming to raise ₹3,000 crore and ₹2,000 crore, respectively. It is expected to tap private credit funds for this issuance and offer coupon rates of 12% for the two-year bonds and 14% for the three-year bonds. In May 2025, Vodafone Idea, led by billionaire Kumar Mangalam Birla, received board approval to raise ₹20,000 crore through a combination of equity and debt instruments.

During the company's June quarter earnings call, former CEO Akshaya Moondra said that Vodafone Idea was also exploring non-bank avenues to support its capital expenditure plans.

Meanwhile, on the stock market, shares of Vodafone Idea—India's third-largest telecom operator—declined nearly 10%, closing at ₹6.71, after Minister of State for Communications Chandra Sekhar Pemmasani stated that the government is not considering any relief for the company concerning its adjusted gross revenue (AGR) dues.

ONGC to launch crude and refined fuel trading unit for group companies

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

STATE-owned Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) is planning to establish a trading unit for crude oil and refined fuels for its group companies, said Rajarshi Gupta, managing director, ONGC Videsh, the overseas arm of ONGC.

Gupta clarified that the plan is still at a preliminary stage, with an internal group formed to discuss the modalities, including legal and operational issues. "The trading unit will help ONGC streamline the sales and purchase of crude oil and refined fuels," Gupta added. He added that ONGC currently produces 42 million tonne of crude oil annually, while its refining subsidiaries Hindustan Petroleum Corporation (HPCL) purchases 30 million tonne, and Mangalore Refinery and Petrochemicals (MRPL) imports about 18 to 20 million tonne.

"As a group, we handle around 100 million tonnes of oil in terms of buying and selling. Coordinating this through a centralized trading unit will significantly improve efficiency and strategic planning," Gupta added. ONGC Videsh, which manages ONGC's overseas oil and gas assets, contributes approximately 10 million tonnes of oil production annually.

AHPI action against Bajaj Allianz, Care arbitrary: GIC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

RESPONDING to the Association of Healthcare Providers India's (AHPI) decision to suspend cashless hospitalisation services for Bajaj Allianz General Insurance and Care Health Insurance from September 1, the General Insurance Council (GIC) on Tuesday said the action is arbitrary, lacks clarity or actionable details.

The August 22 decision of the AHPI followed repeated complaints from its member hospitals that Bajaj Allianz has refused to revise hospital reimbursement rates in line with rising medical costs, and it has pressured hospitals to further reduce tariffs that were agreed upon years ago. In addition, member hospitals complained of unilateral deductions by the Company, delay in payments and unduly high time taken for issuing pre-auth and pre-discharge approvals.

Further, a similar notice has been served to Care Health Insurance on August 22, with a request for their response by 31st August 2025. Failing this, the AHPT's member hospitals will be constrained to discontinue cashless services to Care Health Insurance beneficiaries as well.

CHINA

YUAN FIXING RATE HITS 9-MONTH HIGH

China's central bank has set yuan's daily reference rate against the US dollar at the strongest level in more than nine months, as it expects rate reductions by the Federal Reserve following a dovish pivot by its chair, Jerome Powell. On Monday, the People's Bank of China set yuan's midpoint rate - known as the daily fixing rate - at 7.1161 per dollar, its strongest showing since early November. Compared with 7.1321 in the previous release, Monday's fixing marked largest upwards adjustment since January. The move came after Powell's remarks at the closely watched Federal Reserve's annual Jackson Hole conference on Friday, when he opened door to interest rate cut in September - a dovish turn from his earlier stance against easing. The offshore yuan rose to 7.158 per US dollar by Monday following the fixing - its strongest level since late July. It had surged to 7.167 on Friday as dollar index fell to a four-week low in the wake of Powell's remarks.

JAPAN

FINMIN SEEKS RECORD BUDGET FOR DEBT FINANCING

Japan's finance ministry made initial request of 32.4 trillion yen ($280 bn) for next fiscal year's debt financing needs, reflecting the impact from rising Japanese bond yields. The requested amount was up around 15% from the previous fiscal year's initial budget, as per a report. That compares with overall inflation at about 3% over past year. If approved, the ministry's request would be highest amount ever budgeted for debt-servicing costs, which already account for about a quarter of Japan's national budget. Faced with largest debt load among developed economies, Japan is set to continue to face major costs to maintain its debt, and keep financing an expanding pool of social security needs as its population ages. But as the Bank of Japan (BOJ) continues to hike interest rates, the costs associated with that debt are set to keep increasing.

STEEL EXPORTS TO US FALL 26% IN JUL ON HIGHER TARIFFS

South Korea's steel exports to the US fell 26% in July from a year earlier as Washington doubled its tariffs on the country, a trade association has said. In June, US President Donald Trump raised tariffs on steel and aluminum imports to 50%, up from 25% imposed in March. Korean steel shipments to the US fell to $283 million last month from $382 million a year earlier, as per the data from the Korea International Trade Association (KITA). The value marked the lowest level in four years and four months, since March 2021. By volume, July exports fell 24% YoY to 194,000 tonne, the lowest since January 2023. KITA said. In response to steep tariffs, POSCO and Hyundai Steel Co, the country's two largest steelmakers, have unveiled plans to invest in a steel plant in the US. In March, Hyundai Steel announced it would build a $5.8 billion electric arc furnace-based integrated steel mill in Louisiana by 2029.

From helping dad at hair saloon to podium: Yash's tale

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

VINOD Khandagale was into bodybuilding in his youth and used to train at a local gym named Digvijay Institute in Sangli, Maharashtra in the late 90s. During his days at the gym, he had seen people training for weightlifting at the place.

Born into a family who had been running a hair-cutting saloon for generations, Vinod had to leave bodybuilding and join his family's profession. Vinod might have given up his dream then but vowed that he would not let his children pursue the family profession. And he did exactly the same when admitted his elder son Yash at Digvijay Institute.

It was not easy as at times he struggled to make dietary arrangements for his son but the family, with some help from coach Mayur Sinhasane, managed to sail through the storm. It all came to fruition when Yash clinched a gold medal in the 65kg division in the junior category at the ongoing Commonwealth Championships in Ahmedabad on Tuesday.

"It's been our profession since generations so I always wanted my both sons — Yash and Vedant — to learn the basic skills but I never wanted them to take it up as a career," Vinod told this daily from Sangli. "Recently I renovated the shop and hired a man to help me but in the past I used to manage the shop alone. So sometimes when there were a lot of customers, Yash used to help me. He still does it if the queue is long," added Vinod.

Yash also competed at the Asian Championships in the junior category a few months ago but could not finish on the podium. The gold in Ahmedabad is his first international medal. Yash lifted 123kg in the snatch section and heaved 150kg in clean and jerk making an overall weight of 273kg to finish on the top.

The medal might be his first in an international event but Yash has been finishing on the podium in his age group since last year. He won gold (67kg category) both in junior and youth category during the 2024 Senior, Junior and Youth National Championships. He followed it up with another gold in the 2025 Khelo India Youth Games. He was selected for the 2025 National Games as well but had to skip the event due to his class XII examinations.

"Yash's family sacrificed a lot to make him a weightlifter," said coach Mayur. "The revision in the weight categories by the International Weightlifting Federation (IWF) from June this year meant Yash started competing in the 65kg. It's not easy to adapt to the new weight category but Yash managed it and it showed during his performance in Ahmedabad," added the coach. Apart from Vinod, his wife Asha also runs a beauty parlour from home to make ends meet. The father said he used to save a portion of his daily earnings for Yash's diet. "Mayur sir used to give us the diet chart. Given his workload, Yash needed a good diet including non-vegetarian food like chicken. A meat seller in Sangli knew me and was also aware that my son pursues weightlifting, so he gave me a concession. But there were days when the daily earnings were not enough but we used to manage as we never compromised with Yash's diet," said the father. Vinod is a relieved man as Yash has now pocketed his first international medal. His next mission is to make his second son a successful chess player. "Vedant plays chess. I really hope both of them make our dream true by shining in their respective sports," signed off a proud father.

Stars galore for curtain raiser

India int'l's, fringe players & those making comeback will be in focus at Duleep Trophy

GOMESH S @ Chennai

EVEN as the Indian team is gearing up for the men's T20 Asia Cup, all eyes will be on the star players who will take the field in the opening round of Duleep Trophy from Friday.

Set to be played at the BCCI-Centre of Excellence, the first round of the tournament will be the curtain raiser for the domestic season featuring the likes Dhruv Jurel, Arshdeep Singh, Abhimanyu Easwaran, Kuldeep Yadav and others. India Test captain Shubman Gill was initially set to lead North Zone but having been down with viral fever, it seems unlikely for him to play. After the first round fixture, Gill is expected to join the Indian team for the Asia Cup.

Meanwhile, left-arm pacer Arshdeep, who was warming the bench through the five-Test series in England, will have a point to prove and same will be the case for Kuldeep who will be turning out for Central Zone. Much like them, Easwaran will have the extra motivation to make a statement with the bat as he leads East Zone in the absence of Ishan Kishan against North Zone.

Apart from them, Anshul Kamboj is another player who will be itching to get back into his groove. After a forgettable Test debut in Manchester, Kamboj came under the lens for his lack of pace and intensity. The Haryana workhorse is expected to take the field for North Zone on Friday.

Harshit Rana, another pacer in the scheme for the national team, was in New Delhi until Tuesday playing for North Delhi Strikers in the Delhi Premier League tournament. He might fly out to Bengaluru on Thursday but it remains to be seen whether he plays in the first round game.

For Jurel and Patidar, both will be turning out for Central Zone, the tournament provides an opportunity to pile on runs and stake their claim in the Test squad before the West Indies series in November. Same remains the case for Sarfaraz Khan and Shreyas Iyer as both of them will be playing for West Zone in the semifinal. They will be taking on the winner of Central and North East from September 4. This tournament will also be crucial for Mohammed Shami who has been out of the Indian team. The veteran pacer's dodgy knee has kept him out of the Test team for a long time now and it will be interesting to see how his body copes over four days during the clash between North Zone and East Zone.

South Zone is the only domestic team that will not see several India players like KL Rahul, Mohammed Siraj, B Sai Sudharsan playing for them. Apart from skipper Tilak Varma, Devdutt Padikkal is one player to keep an eye on as he returns to action after a long injury layoff. He injured his hamstring during the Indian Premier League and will be making a comeback to red-ball cricket for the first time in months. Similarly, R Sai Kishore, who missed the ongoing Buchi Babu tournament due to injury, will also be making a comeback. They will be taking the field on September 4 against the winners between North and East. For now, however, all eyes will be on the stars who take the field in the first round come Friday.

CHESS WORLD CUP ON HORIZON

The eight-round global event will be held in Goa for close to a month from November 1. A look at the event's significance...

WHY IS THE MEET IMPORTANT?

Apart from the prestige of winning it, each of the top three placings earn a spot at next year's Candidates. This is how R Praggnanadhaa qualified for the 2024 edition of the Candidates (he had finished runners-up to Magnus Carlsen at the 2023 World Cup).

A CARLSEN-LESS WORLD CUP

Carlsen has qualified for the World Cup but the Norwegian's aversion to Classical chess means he will not play. Hikaru Nakamura is also in the initial list of players who have qualified but the US GM also is winding down his Classical days so it remains to be seen if he plays.

FABI MAYBE TOP SEED

As it stands, Fabiano Caruana will be the top-seed with Praggnanadhaa seeded No. 2. But there's still time for the rankings to change.

GUKESH AMONG OVER 20 INDIANS ELIGIBLE TO PLAY

D Gukesh will likely play some of the other eligible players may not. In theory, Viswanathan Anand has qualified but it's highly unlikely that the five-time world champion will decide to compete.

WHAT THEY SAID

It will be a celebration of chess, and a unique experience for players and spectators from around the world. The representatives of 90+ countries are expected to take part, and it will be one of the most followed events in chess history.

— Arkady Dvorkovich, FIDE president

This is a proud moment for Indian chess, and we are committed to delivering an event that reflects both the passion of our fans and the professionalism of our federation.

ried about the performances from both the TN sides. "The players should adapt and learn about conditions in preparation for this Ranji Trophy season. In a turning track, it's a fighting score (203 and 266). So I believe that the boys are learning. The TNCA XI is a little inexperienced so they will learn how to adapt to those kind of wickets. They will learn to handle the pressure," explained Senthilnathan. "They are youngsters. We will talk to them what should be done. And if they adapt to it even by 5-10 percent, I think it will be easier for them," he added.

Shahrulkh Khan, is yet to get a big score in this tournament. When asked about his lack of runs, Senthilnathan said, "He is an established player. And you don't have to be worried."

THE state of Maharashtra, which has been producing archery exponents, may have another talent in the making. Sharvari Shende, 16, took the archery arena in Grant Park in Winnipeg, Canada by storm, by defeating South Korea's Kim Yewon, in a tie-breaker after a long final tie in the U18 women's recurve category on Sunday.

With this gold, Shende became the third Indian woman to win an U18 world recurve title, with Deepika Kumari doing it first in 2011, followed by Komalika Bari in 2021. One person who has seen her grow from day one is her first coach from the Swarajya Academy of Archery in Pimpri-Chinchwad and former national level archer Kunal Taware. He recalled his feelings watching his ward in the final. "Frankly speaking, I did not expect her to defeat her. The Koreans are the strongest in this sport. But only we know that. Archers of this generation don't consider their opponent, where they come from. They are their own competition," he told this daily.

Before Taware started his academy, he taught archery to students in GG International School in Pimpri-Chinchwad, where Shende studied. Shende, whose parents practice medicine in Pune, learnt archery from Taware there, with the Indian bow in 2018. Four years and several titles in the mini-sub junior (U14) and sub-junior (U17) categories later, she switched to recurve archery under Taware's advice. "I insisted because she was sharp-minded, had good strength and captured the skills needed for the recurve bow really well," he added.

In 2022, Shende took up the recurve bow and within a year, found herself on the international stage, at the 2023 World Archery Youth Championships in Ireland. "It was a great experience there," said Taware, before adding, "But, this was her first international tournament, and the nerves got the better of her." She was part of the U18 recurve team with Madhvi Chauhan and Kiran which the trio lost in the quarterfinal to Chinese Taipei 0-6. Three years later, Shende has become one of the talents one can keep an eye on.

From petri dishes to the operating room, the rise of organoids and bioengineered organs is revolutionising transplant science, offering new hope for millions, while raising complex ethical questions along the way

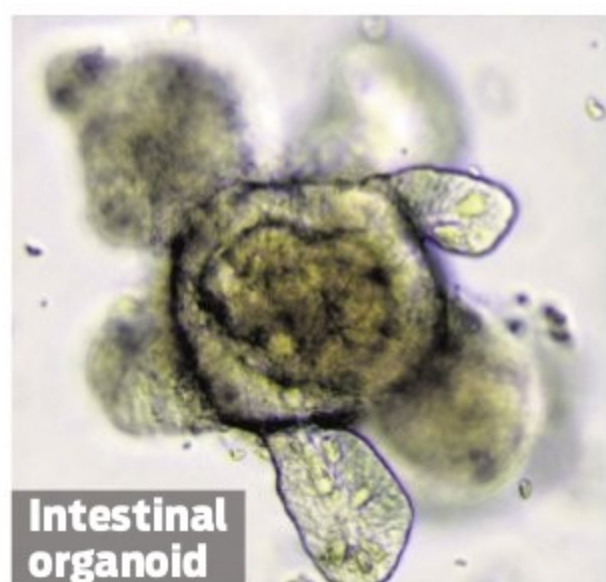

TRANSPLANTING

A future for medicine

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

Imagine a world where no one dies waiting for a transplant. A world where organs are not harvested from donors, but grown in laboratories, customised to each patient's DNA. What once belonged to the realm of science fiction is rapidly becoming science fact. At the heart of this revolution are organoids—tiny, self-organising three-dimensional structures derived from stem cells that mimic real human organs. While they may be miniature in scale, their implications are enormous. The fusion of stem cell biology, tissue engineering, and regenerative medicine is poised to redefine the future of organ transplantation and disease modeling. But as we move closer to growing life in a lab, we must also ask: what are the boundaries of this power?

Intestinal organoid

The organ shortage crisis

Globally, millions suffer from end-stage organ failure—particularly involving the kidneys, liver, lungs, and heart. While organ transplantation remains a powerful life-saving intervention, the demand far outstrips supply. In the US alone, over 100,000 people are on the organ transplant waiting list, with an average of 17 dying every day due to the unavailability of donor organs. In India, the numbers are alarming, with between 300,000 and 500,000 patients waiting for new life-saving transplants, of mostly kidneys, sometimes for years.

This dire shortage has long prompted scientists to explore alternatives: from xenotransplantation (using animal organs) to mechanical devices like ventricular assist pumps. However, both solutions face major limitations—immune rejection, ethical dilemmas, and technical inefficiencies. The dream, therefore, has been to create organs from scratch, using a patient's own cells to bypass rejection and scarcity altogether. This is where organoids step in.

Organoids are miniature,

Organoids are miniature, self-organised 3D cell cultures that mimic the structure and function of human organs, derived from stem cells or tumour cells

Patient-specific models

TYPICALLY GROWN FROM

Stem cells: These include pluripotent stem cells (PSCs) or adult stem cells found in specific tissues

Tumour cells: Organoids are also derived from tumour biopsies to model cancer development

3D STRUCTURE

1 Unlike flat 2D cell cultures, organoids have a three-dimensional architecture that better represents the in vivo environment

SELF-ORGANISATION

2 Stem cells within the culture follow their inherent genetic instructions to self-assemble and form intricate tissue structures

FUNCTIONAL MIMICRY

3 They replicate aspects of the organ's function, such as bile acid excretion in liver organoids or viral infection in lung organoids

PATIENT-SPECIFIC MODELS

4 Organoids derived from a patient's own cells can capture individual genetic makeup, offering highly personalised models for disease and treatment, while also aiding in drug discovery, screening, and regenerative medicine simplified versions of organs grown in vitro from pluripotent stem cells. These cells have the potential to become any type of cell in the human body. Under the right conditions, they self-organise into three-dimensional clusters that resemble the architecture and function of real organs—though on a much smaller scale.

In recent years, scientists have successfully developed brain organoids, kidney organoids, intestinal organoids, and even retinal tissue. While these are not yet full-sized or fully functional organs, they provide unprecedented insight into human development, disease progression, and drug response. For e.g., brain organoids have been used to model conditions like Zika virus-induced microcephaly and autism spectrum disorders.

From organoids to organs

While organoids serve as powerful tools for research and diagnostics, the ultimate goal is to create fully functional, transplantable organs. This involves taking things a step further with tissue engineering and 3D bioprinting. Here's how the process generally works:

1 Stem Cell Harvesting: Cells are taken from the patient to avoid immune rejection.

2 Differentiation: These are coaxed into becoming specific cell types (For e.g., liver or kidney cells).

3 Scaffolding: Cells are seeded onto biodegradable scaffolds that mimic the structure of the organ.

4 Bioreactors: The scaffolded cells are placed in a bioreactor—an artificial environment that mimics blood flow and mechanical stress, promoting tissue growth.

So far, scientists have successfully bioengineered bladders, skin, tracheas, and parts of blood vessels, which have already been transplanted into patients in experimental trials. More complex organs like hearts and lungs remain in the research phase, but progress is accelerating. As with any powerful technology, however, the development of lab-grown organs raises difficult ethical and scientific questions. How do we ensure quality control in organs grown outside the human body? Could defects develop that are not evident until transplantation? What about commercialisation and equity—will lab-grown organs only be available to the wealthy?

Then there's the moral dimension. Brain organoids, for instance, have shown signs of electrical activity similar to fetal brainwaves. Could they ever achieve a form of consciousness? Scientists tread carefully here, adhering to strict guidelines, but as the technology progresses, so must the bioethical framework governing its use.

Personalised medicine and disease modeling

Beyond transplantation, organoids are transforming drug development and personalised medicine. Instead of testing drugs on animals or cell lines that may not replicate human physiology accurately, researchers can test on patient-derived organoids. For e.g., a cancer patient's tumour cells can be used to grow a 'mini-tumour' in the lab and test various chemotherapy drugs, identifying the most effective treatment without harming the patient.

This technique is already being used in cystic fibrosis, where intestinal organoids help predict patient-specific drug responses to novel treatments. As this becomes more widespread, it could radically reduce trial-and-error prescribing and lead to faster, safer therapies.

The next decade could bring monumental breakthroughs. Advances in vascularisation (creating blood supply systems in lab-grown tissues), immune tolerance, and automation of organoid growth are rapidly closing the gap between research and clinical application.

MAHIMA NAGARAJU AND SRUTHI HEMACHANDRAN

WITH families across the state coming together to celebrate Gowri-Ganesha habba, doorways decorated in flowers and banana thoranas, and a carefully selected Ganesha and decked up Gowri ready to be given pride of place, old memories are bound to come rushing back. From gorging on obbattu, kajjaya, and modaks to planning elaborate decorations for their favourite ditties, Kannada celebs too take a trip down memory lane.

SANGEETHA SRINGERI

I grew up in Army quarters and my fondest memories are of collecting money from houses to install a 'bappa', but most of our money used to go into chocolates! I also used to be very careful about not looking at the moon because it is inauspicious. But somehow, my older brother would trick me into looking and I would have to stay up all night and do a 'jagarana' to make up for it. As an actor, I can't celebrate like I used to but I'm going to festival events that fans have invited me to – charity events that I'm proud of them for doing.

RAANNA

My most cherished memory from childhood is going to the shops along the Lalbagh West Gate to the JC Road stretch to pick our Ganesha. The idols in different designs and themes, especially the bigger ones, were mesmerising to me as a kid. Choosing the one for our house felt like an experience by itself. The visarjan, though, always felt like a sad moment. I hold all these beautiful moments close to my heart.

RAMOLA

In the Shivamogga region, each house has Gowri but there's only one big Ganesha set up in the temple. We create different 'mantapas' (canopies) for Gowri every year and there's a huge competition to make the best one. I used to help my grandparents decorate ours with colour paper, balloons, lights, flowers, even fruits. This year, we're planning to go back to our village and I'm looking forward to eating banana kajjaya, a festival specialty shaped like a modak with a bitter-sweet flavour.

BAA-PA BAPPA!

On Ganesha Chaturthi, Kannada stars share their fondest childhood memories of the festival and how they're celebrating this year

SHARMIELA MANDRE

As Kannadigas but also Maharashtrians, Ganesha Chaturthi is the most important festival in my family. We plan everything weeks in advance – the decorations, theme, and elaborate menu with different types of sweets, and of course, the aarti and visarjan. Each year, I look forward to it and love planning this tradition that's been going on for generations. As a kid though, all I would look forward to were the modaks, obbattu and motichoor laddu. I was very strictly told not to touch the sweets before the pooja was over but I was so tempted, I'd slowly go and take them from the side.

PREM

We were a group of 15 boys who had formed 'Sri Vinayaka Geleyara Balaga' and we would start saving our pocket money for the next Ganesha Chaturthi a week after that year's celebrations. We would get materials and make our clay Ganesha, 'chhapra' (canopy) and decorations ourselves. When we started earning, we went all out and with the neighbourhood's contributions, installed a huge Ganesha. I participated in the orchestra and the dramas we arranged. Looking back, I think that may have been the spark for me becoming an actor.

Robotic Surgery Saves 71-Year-Old Woman from Life-Threatening Kidney Tumour

For the past two months, a 71-year-old woman lived in fear as she passed blood every time she urinated. Her body grew weaker and her blood levels dropped to a dangerously low level.

She was then evaluated by Dr Dileep, Urologist at Medico Hospital, Whitefield, who began treatment immediately. A CT scan revealed a large 20 cm tumour in her left kidney. Doctors confirmed it was a kidney tumour. Given her age and extremely weak condition, not removing the tumour would have posed a severe threat to her life.

As conventional open surgery would have been very difficult and risky, the doctors decided to perform a Robotic Radical Nephrectomy. Using robotic technology, the large tumour along with the kidney was safely removed.

Speaking after the surgery, Dr Dileep said: This was an extremely critical case. The patient's advanced age, severe anaemia, and the size of the tumour made conventional surgery very difficult, and recovery would have been slow and risky. Robotic technology gave us hope. It allowed us to remove the tumour completely, precisely and safely."

At present, the patient is stable and recovering well. Doctors emphasise that robotic surgery is a revolutionary life-saving technology in such complex and high-risk cases. With less blood loss, smaller incisions, faster recovery and better outcomes, it has become a true blessing, especially for elderly patients.

Pragathi Shetty with Rishab

MY COSTUMES FOR KANTARA CHAPTER 1 SHOULD BECOME THE REFERENCE POINT FOR THE FUTURE: PRAGATHI SHETTY

A SHARADHAA

WHEN Kantara (2022) stormed into the limelight, audiences marvelled at its authenticity—every frame felt lived in. But behind that textured world stood someone who rarely steps into the limelight: Pragathi Shetty, the film's costume designer, creative partner and the wife of director Rishab Shetty. Now, with Kantara Chapter 1, Hombale Films' biggest project to date, Pragathi steps onto the grandest stage of her career, shaping a visual universe that stretches back a thousand years.

"I have always seen fashion designing as passion, not livelihood. I wanted to breathe every costume I designed," Pragathi says, her voice carrying the exhilaration of someone who has lived with a project for years. "I didn't think of the scale, I only thought, what is the best I can give? This film tested me physically, emotionally, and mentally, but it also made me stronger."

Pragathi honed her instincts with films like Bell Bottom and 777 Charlie, before truly finding notice with Kantara. "That was just a baby step," she recalls. "Back then, I couldn't even be on the sets regularly since I was expecting my child. I handled the costumes, but missed that on-ground experience. This time, I didn't miss a single day. I was present throughout the 250 days of shooting. That presence gave me another level of connection."

Trust was integral, and Rishab insisted she be part of narrations, discussions, and late-night brainstorming. "He always sees me as a critic. He would say, 'I listen like an audience' and expect me to say what works. That way I could understand the world he wanted to build, and translate that into costumes that felt alive."

The challenge of Kantara Chapter 1 went far beyond tailoring fabric. The story stretches back nearly a millennium, to an era with little tangible reference.

"We spent more than six months on research, as there were no direct references. We had to look at paintings, sculptures, dance forms, jewellery traditions, even hair accessories. But we couldn't lift anything as it was, we had to create something original. I always told myself, if anyone looks at our costumes years later, these should become the reference point."

Colours became her obsession. "Every character had variations depending on the stage of their life. From silhouettes to patterns, every shade was deliberate. Rishab and I worked very closely on this, and every department complemented each other—cinematography, art, costumes. We understood we were building one world."

The numbers are staggering: more than 1,000 costumes created, three distinct worlds designed—the tribal universe, the royal kingdom, and a landscape of sports and travel. Materials were sourced from across India: silks from the South, leather from Rajasthan, metals from Bengal, dyes steeped in tradition.

"At one point, I realised I didn't need to be in Bengaluru. We shifted base to Kundapura. Sitting there, I could source materials from across India, my network became my strength. It was stressful, yes, but also exciting," says Pragathi, who points out that none of the costumes were readymade. "Everything had to be customised. Every stitch, every drape, had to have my final approval. We had an in-house team, but also outsourced when needed. Whether it was the leads or junior artistes, everyone's costume passed through my table."

Unlike many designers who focus only on principal characters, Pragathi worked on everything, including peripheral roles. "It wasn't about hierarchy, it was about passion. Real locations, shifting schedules, armours, leather, natural dyes—it was trial and error every single day."

One of the toughest hurdles came with armour. "We had metal tribal costumes, palace leather armour, massive pieces. And I wouldn't let go until they sat perfectly. Since we were shooting in live locations, we couldn't keep these anywhere near the sets as it might catch attention. It was tough, but it taught me so much. Honestly, this film has been like a classroom—every day I learned something new." It was interesting to learn that the costume budget for Kantara Chapter 1 was equal to the entire budget of the original Kantara project.

What made it possible, she says, was the comfort zone of a core team: actor-director Rishab Shetty, cinematographer Arvind Kashyap, the art department, and herself. "We discussed everything. It wasn't just designing costumes. I was there from the first line of Kantara, when Rishab cracked the idea five years ago. To live through that process and now see it take form, it's overwhelming."

For Pragathi, the journey is deeply personal. "This project gave me a pan-India touch. I got to work with materials and artisans from every corner of the country, and Rishab would often say, this itself is Pan India. But more than that, I feel a kind of protection, a divine blessing. We met impossible deadlines, and still, everything aligned. It's hard work, yes, but also something beyond us."

And through it all, Rishab was her anchor. "He is my biggest inspiration. Whenever I doubted myself, I thought, if he can do this, why can't I? That example was always there. Ours is not just a marriage, it's a creative partnership. He would discuss changes, sometimes accept my suggestions, sometimes not, but he always valued my perspective. We have always been each other's moral support."

As Kantara Chapter 1 readies for its October 2 release, Pragathi allows herself a moment of reflection. "From Kantara to now, I feel pride, gratitude, and joy. More than anything, I feel blessed to have been part of every step. And I'm glad we are part of his dream."

Andondittu Kaala reflects the real-life experiences of Keerthi's journey in cinema: Vinay Rajkumar

CE FEATURES

AFTER a long wait, Vinay Rajkumar's next outing Andondittu Kaala is all set to hit theatres this week, perfectly timed with the Gauri-Ganesh festival on August 29. Directed by Keerthi Krishnappa, the film draws inspiration from episodes in the director's own life, blending them into a story of love, friendship, and family bonds.

For Vinay, this film is among the most significant in his career. "This film is extremely close to me. Andondittu Kaala reflects the real-life experiences of Keerthi's journey in cinema. My role has three shades, and it's been a three-year effort to bring it alive. Sharing screen space again with Aruna Balraj, who plays my mother, makes it all the more special," he said.

Actor Aditi Prabhudeva added that the characters will strike a chord with viewers. "There's a certain meaning and warmth to this story that feels very real. The film has close-to-life roles that audiences will relate to. I'm hopeful it will connect deeply with everyone."

Producer Bhuvan Suresh announced a wide release across Karnataka. "We're opening in more than 180 theaters through Jagadeesh Films. Just like the festive feast of holige during Gauri-Ganesh, this movie will be a treat for audiences. I've also done a small role, but this is truly Keerthi's film."

For debutant director Keerthi Krishnappa, Andondittu Kaala has been a labour of love. "It's been a three-year journey, and to make a film inspired by a director's struggles is something I take pride in. The film has shades of romance, friendship, and strong emotion. I'm thankful to my cast and crew for shaping it just as I envisioned."

Veteran actor Aruna Balraj, who plays Vinay's mother, described the story as heartfelt and universal. "This is about a mother's sacrifices and her hopes for her child. On screen, these emotions will feel even more intimate. Every family will find a piece of themselves in it."

With a festive release window, a wide theatrical rollout, and a story rooted in emotion and relatability, Andondittu Kaala is positioned as more than just another festival release. It's a project that carries personal weight for its cast and crew. The film features music by Raghavendra V and cinematography by Abhishek G Kasaragod.

Vagdevi Kala Utsav 2025 Concludes with Splendour

The two-day Kala Utsav 2025, hosted at Vagdevi Vilas School, Marathahalli, concluded in grand style, drawing enthusiastic participation from thousands of students, parents and members of the public. This year's theme, 'Glorious Empires and Emperors of Ancient Sanatana Bharat', celebrated India's civilisational legacy through a rich blend of art and scholarship.

The festival was inaugurated by former ISRO Chairman Dr. A. S. Kiran Kumar, who spoke of India's remarkable journey in space exploration. He recalled how, in 1975, India had to depend on advanced nations for its satellite programmes; today, however, with the dedication and brilliance of Indian scientists, the country stands shoulder to shoulder with the world's leading space powers.

The Utsav featured an array of competitions in singing, dance, debates, drama, quiz and rangoli; each designed to inspire creativity and provide a platform for students to display their talents. A major attraction was the mesmerising sand art installation by internationally acclaimed artist and Padma Shri awardee Sudarsan Pattnaik. His creation, depicting

K. Harish, Chairman of Vagdevi Vilas Institutions, is a former scientist at ISRO who has dedicated his life to nurturing future generations. He founded Vagdevi Vilas Institutions in Marathahalli before expanding them to several parts of Bengaluru and Karnataka. A visionary educationist, he pioneered Vagdevi Vignana Utsav and Kala Utsav to provide students with platforms to showcase both their scientific acumen and cultural creativity.

Jagadguru Swami Rambhadracharya alongside Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj, conveyed a profound message: that both Shastra (knowledge) and Shashtra (weapons) are indispensable for national defence. The artwork left the audience spellbound.

The valedictory ceremony was graced by Jagadguru Swami Rambhadracharya, recipient of the Jnanpith Award and Padma Vibhushan, who was conferred with the honour "Vagdevi Jnana Bhaskara Ratna." Renowned historian and author Dr. Vikram Sampath was felicitated with the "Vagdevi Itihasa Ratnakara" award, while student winners from across competitions were also celebrated.
